Marines Again Forced To Yield Outpost Hill

Four Counterattacks Fail To Dislodge Reds

SEOUL, Saturday, March 28 (AP)—American Marines lost the crest of an outpost hill today for the second time in two days, yielding the only ground they had won back in five days of furious fighting since the Communists launched their Western Front spring drive.

"Vegas is still being fought for," a First Marine Division spokesman reported just before noon. "Neither side has control. The enemy holds the northern slopes, we hold the southern slopes and the crest belongs to no one."

Front line reports, sketchy and incomplete, said Marine mop-up crews sent out in the predawn darkness to clear out Red remnants ran into strong Chinese forces on the northern slope.

Four counterattacks failed to dislodge the Reds. But the storm of fire put up by the Chinese forced the Leathernecks to withdraw from the crest of Vegas down the south slope.

Vegas was one of two outposts hills near Bunker Hill in the Panmunjom area where Marines fought to the last man before yielding to Chinese attacking at 10 outposts Thursday.

While Friday's fight for Vegas Outpost was at its height, the emboldened Reds apparently tried to send MIG15 jets down to the front against the Marines. They got within 25 miles before intercepting Australian twin-jet meteors turned them back, probably shooting down one MIG and damaging another.

Slower Marine propellor-driven planes halted other MIGs near Chinnampo, port for the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang. The Marine fliers claimed damage to one MIG. U. S. Sabres farther north also tangled with MIGs, probably downing one and damaging another.

Some Far East command officers in Tokyo expressed belief that the Red drive was intended to determine: 1. If there is an Allied ammunition shortage; 2. The battle effectiveness of newly arrived Allied soldiers and commanders.

If so, the Reds got their fiery answers. Allied artillery pounded the Reds day and night, outshooting Communist artillery.

Smashing Vote Of Confidence In Eisenhower

11 Republicans, Two Demos Oppose "Chip" For Post In Moscow

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — The Senate approved Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow today in a smashing 74 to 13 vote of confidence in President Eisenhower.

Two Democrats joined 11 Republicans in voting against confirmation of the 48-year-old career diplomat who had been unqualifiedly endorsed by Eisenhower as the best man for the Moscow post.

Bohlen, who won his soubriquet of "Chip" at Harvard because of his chipper affability, is expected to be dispatched as soon as possible to Moscow. He will be this country's first ambassador to Red Russia under the new Malenkov regime.

The State Department said he will probably be sworn in early next week and leave shortly thereafter.

Rebuff For McCarthy

The lopsided vote rang up a thumping victory for the Eisenhower administration—notably for the President himself and for Secretary of State Dulles—over a small Republican-dominated group which had attacked Bohlen as an advocate of the old Truman-Acheson foreign policies.

It was also a rebuff for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), one of the leaders in the attack on Bohlen.

The Wisconsin senator said after the vote that Bohlen drew support from senators who cast their ballots for him "not because they had confidence in him, but because they wanted to give President Eisenhower a vote of confidence."

The climactic vote, witnessed by jam-packed Senate galleries, came after two days of bitter debate in which a group of GOP senators assailed Bohlen as an "exponent of appeasement" toward Moscow and as a symbol of the World War II Yalta agreements.

Marylanders Back Bohlen

Plane Ride's End

Roland Sperry, 32, is shown under arrest at San Diego, Calif., yesterday at the end of what police said was a ride in a stolen plane during which he threatened a suicide crash. He flew between Los Angeles and San Diego nearly four hours. Sheriff's Deputies Joe Drodney (left) and Lewis Mitchell (right) takes Sperry to jail. He was booked on suspicion of theft of the plane. ## At Least 12 Die In Rail Wreck

Two New York Central Passenger Trains Hit Derailed Freight Cars

CONNEAUT, O., Saturday, March 28 (AP)—Two passenger trains piled atop a wrecked New York Central freight train last night, killing 12 persons and injuring 20 four miles east of Conneaut.

The Ohio highway patrol gave the dead and injured figures.

"We are pretty sure of that figure," said Patrolman E. L. Dennison.

"We've had trouble getting information."

400 Believed On Trains

All available ambulances from Conneaut were rushed to the scene. Conneaut is about 70 miles east of Cleveland.

The dispatcher said the passenger trains involved are No. 5, a Buffalo to Chicago express, and No. 12, the Southwestern Limited from St. Louis to New York.

It was not known how many passengers were aboard both trains but it was believed to be about 400. The Southwestern had 127 passengers when it left St. Louis.

The dispatcher gave this version of the wreck:

"The freight train was on what is known as No. 3 track. Some of its cars derailed. The Buffalo to Chicago express came along and smashed into the wreckage. Then the Southwestern smacked into the piled up jumble."

Freight May Have Struck Object

Another New York Central spokesman said the big pileup was caused by an object falling from one of the cars of an eastbound freight. This object, he said, was struck by a westbound freight, derailing some of its cars. Just about that time the two passenger trains came roaring through the night to pile into the wreckage.

At Conneaut, Mrs. Rose Childs, the night supervisor of Brown Memorial Hospital said all available ambulances had been sent to the scene and that "there were casualties all over the place."

The Cleveland Plain Dealer quoted a wreck scene report as saying a westbound freight train struck an automobile or truck at a grade crossing. The freight train, this report said, was derailed.

No. 5, a fast westbound passenger train running on a parallel track, ran into the freight's wreckage, which was spread over four tracks. The passenger train was wrecked.

Then came the Southwestern Limited, eastbound, which plowed into the wreckage of No. 5.

Since all three trains were on different tracks, automatic signals didn't stop them.

RESIGNS — Wes Roberts (above) resigned yesterday as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Roberts has been under fire in connection with a hospital building purchase by the state of Kansas.

President Ike Says Decision Is "Wise" One

Party Head Accused Of Violating Spirit Of Kas. Lobby Law

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — C. Wesley Roberts resigned under fire as chairman of the Republican National Committee tonight and President Eisenhower promptly called it a "wise decision."

The President said Roberts, accused of violating the spirit of a Kansas lobbying law, resigned "on his own initiative."

The announcement came after Roberts emerged from a heart-to-heart White House talk with Eisenhower, who had approved Roberts' election to the high party post last January.

The 49-year-old Roberts quit with a blast at unnamed Kansas politicos. He said he had been made the victim of "a carefully contrived and thinly veiled plot, growing out of a fierce factional fight in Kansas state politics."

Usefulness Destroyed

The plot, he said, "has destroyed my usefulness as national chairman."

Roberts' announcement, issued through GOP national headquarters, came on the heels of a finding by a Kansas legislative inquiry committee that Roberts violated at least the spirit of the state's lobbying law.

The case, touched off by a story by a Kansas City Star reporter, centered on Roberts' action in taking an $11,000 fee for acting as agent in the sale of a $110,000 hospital building to the state two years ago. This raised the critical cry of "10 percenter."

Witnesses before the Kansas inquiry committee testified the building either already belonged to the state or would revert to the state under certain conditions. At the time of the transaction Roberts held no government or party post.

GOP Leaders Surprised

The resignation took most GOP leaders by sharp surprise. It had been expected earlier that the case might drag out for months.

Republican spokesmen said they were so unprepared for the resignation that little consideration had been given to a new man for the $32,500 a year chairmanship.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), who sponsored Roberts for the party chairmanship, issued a statement saying:

"Wes Roberts, who has rendered outstanding service to the Republican party in the state and the nation, again has demonstrated his intense devotion to the party by presenting his resignation.

"Knowing Wes as I do, I find he still feels that any man in a position of responsibility and trust, must, in the eyes of the people he serves, be above any semblance of reproach."

Army Will Ring Key Cities With Guided Missiles

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — The Army announced today it will start this summer to ring key cities with guided missiles capable of knocking down enemy aircraft traveling faster than sound.

The new weapons carry the name "Nike," the name of the Greek Goddess of Victory. Army anti-aircraft battalions now equipped with conventional 90 M.M. and 120 M.M. guns have been training in the use of guided missiles, the Army said, and will be ready to replace their old heavy gun batteries in a few months.

Army spokesmen did not list the strategic areas to be guarded by the new weapons.

Today's announcement indicated the Army has accumulated a sufficient number of the new missiles to take their place in the air defense of the nation. The Army said the missiles would supplement the radar - guided, fully automatic "Skysweeper" anti - aircraft guns which would be used against medium and low-flying planes.

The Army described the Nike weapon as capable of flying to high altitudes day or night in any kind of weather. Although designed primarily for use against attacking aircraft at high altitudes, the Nike is known to travel so fast it can track down and hit another fast moving missile.

In earlier tests of the missle at the White Sands, N. M., proving ground, high-flying, remotely guided airplanes have been destroyed by a single Nike fired from launching platforms on the ground many miles away.

Dulles Advises Mayer To Seek Saar Settlement

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles today urged French Premier Rene Mayer to seek at the "earliest opportunity" a settlement with Germany of the knotty Saar issue, which has stood in the way of French ratification of the six-nation European defense force.

This was disclosed by the State Department after Mayer insisted in a speech that France would not ratify until there is a French-German understanding on the future of the rich, disputed border area.

Premier Restates Position

The Premier restated the French position at the National Press Club. Later, in another of his three-day series of conferences between French and U. S. leaders, he received Dulles' answer.

The secretary said the U. S recognized that the Saar was a political problem but "expressed the hope that the earliest opportunity would be taken to reach agreement," the State Department said.

Authoritative informants added that Dulles urged France to go ahead with approving the defense force and leave a precise definition of the future of the Saar area for later.

Further Delay Risky

Dulles reportedly said that present day compulsions demand that there be no further delay in creating the single uniformed force which would include West German troops.

In the conferences, informants said also, the French have indicated they have plans to wind up the bulk of the fighting in Indochina within two years, assuming no large scale Chinese Communist intervention occurs in the meantime.

The French are looking to the United States for help in arming an additional commando force of some 57 battalions of Viet Namese troops this year.

Amnesty Decreed For Many Inmates Of Russian Prisons

LONDON, March 28 (Friday) (INS)—Radio Moscow reported today that the new Communist regime of Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov has ordered amnesty for all prisoners convicted of "crimes constituting no great danger to security of the state."

The amnesty decree said that because of consolidation of the social and state system in Russia, and the increased prosperity and higher cultural standard of living "the Supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R. does not consider it necessary to hold any longer prisoners who committed crimes which do not constitute a great danger for the state."

The decree said that for these reasons the U. S. S. R. was allowing such prisoners to return "to honorable labor and work and to become useful members of society."

The decree contained three principal provisions relating to the release of prisoners, including:

1. Release of such prisoners serving up to five years.
2. Release of prisoners sentenced for "official economic and military offenses."
3. Release of women prisoners without regard to their length of sentence.

The decree also provides for halving the sentences of those prisoners sentenced to terms of more than five years.

The order to halve sentences of more than five years, the decree stated, does not apply to prisoners serving terms for "counter revolutionary crimes, major crimes against public property or murder."

Rest Room Time Check Denounced

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — Rep. Barratt O'Hara (D-Ill) disclosed with considerable anger today that hundreds of post office workers in Chicago have to report how much time they spend in the rest room.

"A national shame," he called it in an article in the Congressional Record. "An inexcusable affront to the dignity of federal workers."

If it is sound public policy to require such a check, he reasoned, "then it should be applied even to members of the President's Cabinet."

Indeed, he said, "someone, somewhere must have in mind using the Chicago experience to fasten this indefensible and intolerable practice upon federal workers everywhere in the nation."

Md. Senate, House Conferees Near Accord On Budget Cut Proposals

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 27 (AP)—The Senate and House dollar-dogging committees got together tonight to try to iron out their differences over cuts in Gov. McKeldin's 195 million dollar budget.

The House Ways and Means Committee decided on slashes amounting to two million dollars earlier this week, and the cuts were approved by the House last night with only one dissenting vote.

The Senate Finance Committee has not indicated where it differs.

Chairman Goldstein (D-Calvert) predicted his Finance Committee would cut even more from the record-high budget.

Five members of each committee huddled behind closed doors shortly after the afternoon session was over.

Emerging after an hour and a half, both financial chairmen reported they were progressing satisfactorily on reconciliation of various different ideas on cuts.

The subcommittees will go into another huddle after tonight's session and Goldstein expressed the opinion that another hour's work might find them in full agreement.

In case the two committees cannot agree on what cuts should be made, the Senate probably will pass its own budget bill, as has the House, and the two bodies will name a formal conference committee to draw a compromise.

The Senate rejected a move by Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset) to include school bus drivers in the retirement system.

The House advanced to final consideration authority for private construction of a bridge from Worcester County to a resort development on Assateague Island.

It wrote into a bill to lower the inventory tax on businesses in some counties, a provision to block any increase in the state's distribution of school funds.

Prodded by Allegany County delegates, the House refused to okay Senate confirmation of members of the State Industrial Accident Commission. The Senate had added such a clause to a House-passed bill intended to increase commission membership from four to five.

Jelke Sentenced To Three To Six Years In Prison

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Minot (Mickey) Jelke was sentenced to three to six years in prison today as an unrepentant Cafe Society procurer. He already is serving eight months on another charge.

General Session Judge Francis L. Valente considered a suspended sentence for the 23-year-old oleomargarine heir. But he said Jelke's morals are too black now to hold out hope of any immediate rehabilitation.

Valente blistered the pudgy playboy with such labels as "anti-social . . . frankly immoral . . . self degrading . . . a law to himself."

In a small Italian restaurant not far from the court building 19-year-old Pat Ward sipped martinis and told a reporter Jelke's sentence was only "a fraction of what he deserves."

She was the star state witness against him, one of two girls Jelke induced or tried to induce into prostitution.

He could have gotten 40 years in prison, although the all-male jury that convicted him Feb. 27 on two counts of compulsory prostitution recommended mercy. However, this was not binding on Valente.

Jelke, brought to court from the City Prison at Rikers Island, took the new sentence with outward calm. It may mean that he will be behind bars when he inherits an estimated three million dollars in two years.

Mau Maus Raid African Village, Massacre 150

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 27 (AP)—Mau Mau knifemen struck the village of Lari outside Nairobi early today and massacred about 150 Kikuyu tribesmen in the greatest single outburst of vengeance since the dread secret society started its campaign against the white man.

Five more natives were killed in an attack on a police station about 40 miles north of Nairobi.

Government servants and their families who had remained loyal to the Whites in this British colony were the victims of the Lari massacre.

About 50 Kikuyu Mau Maus disguised in long black coats to resemble policemen crept up on the collection of huts 10 miles outside Nairobi and killed native sentries before they could give the alarm.

Then, knowing that the doors were locked and barred against terroristic intrusion, the raiders ran from hut to hut setting fires.

When the inhabitants dashed out to escape the flames, the fanatic attackers cut them down with knives, short swords and axes. They disemboweled pregnant women before the eyes of their children and then murdered the children.

Many victims were burned to death and some bodies were still believed to be in the hot ashes late today.

The raiders escaped in trucks with 30 rifles and 15 machine guns that they had seized.

British soldiers, sent here several months ago to give protection, heard the sound of shooting, but arrived after the massacre was over.

Gary Cooper Injured

CUAUTLA, Mexico, March 27 (AP) —Hollywood Oscar winner Gary Cooper was injured today in a too-realistic bandit scene. His condition was reported not serious.

Cooper, who last week won the Motion Picture Academy Award for best actor of the year, was struck in the right shoulder by fragments of a dynamited bridge. The 51-year-old actor suffered contusions and severe burns.

Lady Astor, 'Dove Of Peace,' Tees Off Anew On McCarthy

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — With a gleam in her eye, Lady Astor described herself as a "Dove of Peace" today — and then teed off anew on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis).

The Virginia - born viscountess said she'd gladly go to jail for a year if McCarthy would go with her and stop bothering President Eisenhower.

Jail had been proposed for Lady Astor by a Wisconsin editor because of a comment she made at a party given by Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and Mrs. Taft for the President and Mrs. Eisenhower Wednesday night.

Happily, the razor-tongued Lady Astor told reporters today:

"I'd go to jail for a year if McCarthy would go with me and let the President to his work."

Moments later, addressing a Red Cross luncheon, she said she was only joking about the poison.

"I don't want to murder anyone," she said. But she added reflectively:

"The more I think of it, I evidently said what a lot of people were thinking . . . If I'd been in Virginia when Sen. McCarthy said Gen. Marshall was a traitor, I'm not at all certain what I would have done with a shotgun."

McCarthy said in a 1951 Senate speech that Gen. George C. Marshall, when Army chief of staff, sided with Russia in making decisions which lost the peace for this country.

Lovelorn Airman Abandons His Plan For Suicide Crash

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 27 (AP) —A bright red airplane landed here today at 1:21 p.m. to end what authorities said was a suicide scare ride by the pilot.

He was arrested immediately.

Thus ended a grim four - hours in the air between Los Angeles and here while other pilots tried to talk the lovelorn pilot into landing rather than crashing his craft.

Roland Sperry, 32, who had been quoted as saying "I'm going to crash and kill myself," stepped from the plane uninjured.

He had been in the air four hours and three minutes in a grim hide and seek chase with other planes.

His Stinson plane was nearly out of gas.

Sperry's divorced wife Ovella and their three children waited in suspense at the Gardena Airport, where the flight started while the red plane skirted the coast between here and Los Angeles three times.

Two Coast Guard planes which had taken up his trail followed him to the landing.

Sperry, of the Los Angeles suburb of Inglewood, started the strange ride from Gardena Airport at 9:18 a.m.

He told the Gardena control tower as he took off: "I'm going to crash and kill myself."

The owner of the plane, Art Eytchison, took off in another. He reported Sperry tried to ram him. A sheriff's plane went up. Two jets from North American Aircraft roared into the air. From San Diego the Coast Guard sent up a JRF Grumman Amphibian.

While the plane was aloft police found a note in Sperry's 1951 Cadillac which ared:

"Darling Isabel, I've been lost since I left you Monday a.m. to go to court. I wish I were dead, because I'll never have you any more, will I, Isabel? Forgive me for everything. Love, Roland."

"Isabel" was not identified.

Dulles Advises Mayer To Seek Saar Settlement

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles today urged French Premier Rene Mayer to seek at the "earliest opportunity" a settlement with Germany of the knotty Saar issue, which has stood in the way of French ratification of the six-nation European defense force.

This was disclosed by the State Department after Mayer insisted in a speech that France would not ratify until there is a French-German understanding on the future of the rich, disputed border area.

Premier Restates Position

The Premier restated the French position at the National Press Club. Later, in another of his three-day series of conferences between French and U. S. leaders, he received Dulles' answer.

The secretary said the U. S recognized that the Saar was a political problem but "expressed the hope that the earliest opportunity would be taken to reach agreement," the State Department said.

Authoritative informants added that Dulles urged France to go ahead with approving the defense force and leave a precise definition of the future of the Saar area for later.

Further Delay Risky

Dulles reportedly said that present day compulsions demand that there be no further delay in creating the single uniformed force which would include West German troops.

In the conferences, informants said also, the French have indicated they have plans to wind up the bulk of the fighting in Indochina within two years, assuming no large scale Chinese Communist intervention occurs in the meantime.

The French are looking to the United States for help in arming an additional commando force of some 57 battalions of Viet Namese troops this year.

Lady Astor, 'Dove Of Peace,' Tees Off Anew On McCarthy

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — With a gleam in her eye, Lady Astor described herself as a "Dove of Peace" today — and then teed off anew on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis).

The Virginia - born viscountess said she'd gladly go to jail for a year if McCarthy would go with her and stop bothering President Eisenhower.

Jail had been proposed for Lady Astor by a Wisconsin editor because of a comment she made at a party given by Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and Mrs. Taft for the President and Mrs. Eisenhower Wednesday night.

Happily, the razor-tongued Lady Astor told reporters today:

"I'd go to jail for a year if McCarthy would go with me and let the President to his work."

Moments later, addressing a Red Cross luncheon, she said she was only joking about the poison.

"I don't want to murder anyone," she said. But she added reflectively:

"The more I think of it, I evidently said what a lot of people were thinking ... If I'd been in Virginia when Sen. McCarthy said Gen. Marshall was a traitor, I'm not at all certain what I would have done with a shotgun."

McCarthy said in a 1951 Senate speech that Gen. George C. Marshall, when Army chief of staff, sided with Russia in making decisions which lost the peace for this country.

At Least 12 Die In Rail Wreck

Two New York Central Passenger Trains Hit Derailed Freight Cars

CONNEAUT, O., Saturday, March 28 (AP)—Two passenger trains piled atop a wrecked New York Central freight train last night, killing 12 persons and injuring 20 four miles east of Conneaut.

The Ohio highway patrol gave the dead and injured figures.

"We are pretty sure of that figure," said Patrolman E. L. Dennison.

"We've had trouble getting information."

400 Believed On Trains

All available ambulances from Conneaut were rushed to the scene. Conneaut is about 70 miles east of Cleveland.

The dispatcher said the passenger trains involved are No. 5, a Buffalo to Chicago express, and No. 12, the Southwestern Limited from St. Louis to New York.

It was not known how many passengers were aboard both trains but it was believed to be about 400. The Southwestern had 127 passengers when it left St. Louis.

The dispatcher gave this version of the wreck:

"The freight train was on what is known as No. 3 track. Some of its cars derailed. The Buffalo to Chicago express came along and smashed into the wreckage. Then the Southwestern smacked into the piled up jumble."

Freight May Have Struck Object

Another New York Central spokesman said the big pileup was caused by an object falling from one of the cars of an eastbound freight. This object, he said, was struck by a westbound freight, derailing some of its cars. Just about that time the two passenger trains came roaring through the night to pile into the wreckage.

At Conneaut, Mrs. Rose Childs, the night supervisor of Brown Memorial Hospital said all available ambulances had been sent to the scene and that "there were casualties all over the place."

The Cleveland Plain Dealer quoted a wreck scene report as saying a westbound freight train struck an automobile or truck at a grade crossing. The freight train, this report said, was derailed.

No. 5, a fast westbound passenger train running on a parallel track, ran into the freight's wreckage, which was spread over four tracks. The passenger train was wrecked.

Then came the Southwestern Limited, eastbound, which plowed into the wreckage of No. 5.

Since all three trains were on different tracks, automatic signals didn't stop them.

RESIGNS — Wes Roberts (above) resigned yesterday as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Roberts has been under fire in connection with a hospital building purchase by the state of Kansas.

Jelke Sentenced To Three To Six Years In Prison

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Minot (Mickey) Jelke was sentenced to three to six years in prison today as an unrepentant Cafe Society procurer. He already is serving eight months on another charge.

General Session Judge Francis L. Valente considered a suspended sentence for the 23-year-old oleomargarine heir. But he said Jelke's morals are too black now to hold out hope of any immediate rehabilitation.

Valente blistered the pudgy playboy with such labels as "anti-social ... frankly immoral ... self degrading ... a law to himself."

In a small Italian restaurant not far from the court building 19-year-old Pat Ward sipped martinis and told a reporter Jelke's sentence was only "a fraction of what he deserves."

She was the star state witness against him, one of two girls Jelke induced or tried to induce into prostitution.

He could have gotten 40 years in prison, although the all-male jury that convicted him Feb. 27 on two counts of compulsory prostitution recommended mercy. However, this was not binding on Valente.

Jelke, brought to court from the City Prison at Rikers Island, took the new sentence with outward calm. It may mean that he will be behind bars when he inherits an estimated three million dollars in two years.

Mau Maus Raid African Village, Massacre 150

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 27 (AP)—Mau Mau knifemen struck the village of Lari outside Nairobi early today and massacred about 150 Kikuyu tribesmen in the greatest single outburst of vengeance since the dread secret society started its campaign against the white man.

Five more natives were killed in an attack on a police station about 40 miles north of Nairobi.

Government servants and their families who had remained loyal to the Whites in this British colony were the victims of the Lari massacre.

About 50 Kikuyu Mau Maus disguised in long black coats to resemble policemen crept up on the collection of huts 10 miles outside Nairobi and killed native sentries before they could give the alarm.

Then, knowing that the doors were locked and barred against terroristic intrusion, the raiders ran from hut to hut setting fires.

When the inhabitants dashed out to escape the flames, the fanatic attackers cut them down with knives, short swords and axes. They disemboweled pregnant women before the eyes of their children and then murdered the children.

Many victims were burned to death and some bodies were still believed to be in the hot ashes late today.

The raiders escaped in trucks with 30 rifles and 15 machine guns that they had seized.

British soldiers, sent here several months ago to give protection, heard the sound of shooting, but arrived after the massacre was over.

President Ike Says Decision Is "Wise" One

Party Head Accused Of Violating Spirit Of Kas. Lobby Law

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — C. Wesley Roberts resigned under fire as chairman of the Republican National Committee tonight and President Eisenhower promptly called it a "wise decision."

The President said Roberts, accused of violating the spirit of a Kansas lobbying law, resigned "on his own initiative."

The announcement came after Roberts emerged from a heart-to-heart White House talk with Eisenhower, who had approved Roberts' election to the high party post last January.

The 49-year-old Roberts quit with a blast at unnamed Kansas politicos. He said he had been made the victim of "a carefully contrived and thinly veiled plot, growing out of a fierce factional fight in Kansas state politics."

Usefulness Destroyed

The plot, he said, "has destroyed my usefulness as national chairman."

Roberts' announcement, issued through GOP national headquarters, came on the heels of a finding by a Kansas legislative inquiry committee that Roberts violated at least the spirit of the state's lobbying law.

The case, touched off by a story by a Kansas City Star reporter, centered on Roberts' action in taking an $11,000 fee for acting as agent in the sale of a $110,000 hospital building to the state two years ago. This raised the critical cry of "10 percenter."

Witnesses before the Kansas inquiry committee testified the building either already belonged to the state or would revert to the state under certain conditions. At the time of the transaction Roberts held no government or party post.

GOP Leaders Surprised

The resignation took most GOP leaders by sharp surprise. It had been expected earlier that the case might drag out for months.

Republican spokesmen said they were so unprepared for the resignation that little consideration had been given to a new man for the $32,500 a year chairmanship.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), who sponsored Roberts for the party chairmanship, issued a statement saying:

"Wes Roberts, who has rendered outstanding service to the Republican party in the state and the nation, again has demonstrated his intense devotion to the party by presenting his resignation.

"Knowing Wes as I do, I find he still feels that any man in a position of responsibility and trust, must, in the eyes of the people he serves, be above any semblance of reproach."

Gary Cooper Injured

CUAUTLA, Mexico, March 27 (AP) —Hollywood Oscar winner Gary Cooper was injured today in a too-realistic bandit scene. His condition was reported not serious.

Cooper, who last week won the Motion Picture Academy Award for best actor of the year, was struck in the right shoulder by fragments of a dynamited bridge. The 51-year-old actor suffered contusions and severe burns.

Lovelorn Airman Abandons His Plan For Suicide Crash

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 27 (AP) —A bright red airplane landed here today at 1:21 p.m. to end what authorities said was a suicide scare ride by the pilot.

He was arrested immediately.

Thus ended a grim four - hours in the air between Los Angeles and here while other pilots tried to talk the lovelorn pilot into landing rather than crashing his craft.

Roland Sperry, 32, who had been quoted as saying "I'm going to crash and kill myself," stepped from the plane uninjured.

He had been in the air four hours and three minutes in a grim hide and seek chase with other planes.

His Stinson plane was nearly out of gas.

Sperry's divorced wife Ovella and their three children waited in suspense at the Gardena Airport, where the flight started while the red plane skirted the coast between here and Los Angeles three times.

Two Coast Guard planes which had taken up his trail followed him to the landing.

Sperry, of the Los Angeles suburb of Inglewood, started the strange ride from Gardena Airport at 9:18 a.m.

He told the Gardena control tower as he took off: "I'm going to crash and kill myself."

The owner of the plane, Art Eytchison, took off in another. He reported Sperry tried to ram him. A sheriff's plane went up. Two jets from North American Aircraft roared into the air. From San Diego the Coast Guard sent up a JRF Grumman Amphibian.

While the plane was aloft police found a note in Sperry's 1951 Cadillac which ared:

"Darling Isabel, I've been lost since I left you Monday a.m. to go to court. I wish I were dead, because I'll never have you any more, will I, Isabel? Forgive me for everything. Love, Roland."

"Isabel" was not identified.

Dulles, Bidault Agree Russian Policy Is Same

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles and French Foreign Minister Bidault gave Russia's soft-talking new government a quick going-over today and decided they must be on their guard against phony peace moves aimed at splitting the North Atlantic Allies.

Talk of peace from Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov, who presumably is beset now by internal difficulties, so far offers no evidence of any basic change in Soviet policy, the two foreign policy leaders were reported to have agreed.

On the contrary they assumed that the new Kremlin regime, like that of the late Premier Joseph Stalin, continues to be dominated by the Communist party's philosophy of world conquest.

Nevertheless the exchange of views between Dulles and Bidault made clear that both men feel the Western Powers must be ready, however skeptical they may be, to deal with any conciliatory move which appears to be genuine and to deal with it in such a way as to advance the prospects for world peace to the fullest extent possible.

Yanks Don't Lack Ammo, Reds Say

TOKYO, March 27 (AP)—The Chinese Communists, who found out to their cost, said tonight U. S. forces in Korea do not lack ammunition.

A Peiping broadcast heard here made no mention of the outbreak of fighting in Western Korea this week which cost the Communists heavily in casualties. No U. S. ammunition shortages developed in the battles of Old Baldy and Bunker Hill.

Rather, Peiping was trying to make propaganda capital of the ammunition controversy in the U. S. Congress.

"Watching the antics of U. S. congressmen who are now shouting about an 'ammunition shortage' in Korea," said Peiping, "observers here comment that this is the latest U. S. attempt to divert attention from the realities of their hopeless situation in the Korean War.

"The fact is, of course, that the U. S. forces in Korea do not lack ammunition. What they lack is the way to retrieve their disastrous situation."

Baltimore's Night Spots Zip Up Doors On Union Strippers

BALTIMORE, March 27 (AP) — Baltimore night-club owners zipped up their doors on the city's unionized strip tease dancers today, declaring they would cancel all union variety acts.

The decision came as a result of a dispute with the American Guild of Variety Artists (AFL) who insist upon a $2.50 per week welfare fund contribution for every performer and other contract demands.

Local night club men say their action follows similar decisions made in Chicago and Philadelphia.

Six Czech Refugees Cable Flowers To Ike

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 27 (AP)—Six anti-Communists who fled Czechoslovakia last Monday aboard a "freedom airliner" today cabled flowers to President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Their cable described the flowers "as a token of our appreciation to the American government and the American people for the chance that has been given to us to make a new life as free people."

It added:

"May we express the thanks of ourselves as refugees who have reached the West and the thanks of thousands of freedom-loving people still behind the Iron Curtain because our escape and the treatment we have received from your government will keep hope alive in their hearts."

Police Believe Ad For Model Lured Women To London Murder House

LONDON, March 27 (AP)—Scotland Yard tonight investigated a theory that at least one of the four women found strangled in a shabby house of murder was lured there by an advertisement for a model.

The strange case took a new twist when detectives tried to trace the movements of Rita Nelson, 24-year-old art student who was interested in a modeling career.

They pinned hopes on the prospect the shy fair-haired girl from Northern Ireland might have done a sketch of the killer. She liked to do pencil sketches of acquaintances at a Shepherd's Bush Restaurant where she worked as a part-time waitress while attending art school.

Scotland Yard issued a photograph of John Reginald Halliday Christie, 55, a trucking clerk wanted for questioning in connection with the finding of the four bodies in the ground-floor apartment at No. 10 Rillington - Place in the Down-at-the-Heels Notting Hill area where he had lived 15 years.

One of the women victims was Christie's 45-year-old wife.

Fears there may be other girl victims whose bodies have not yet been discovered led detectives to comb the horror apartment anew.

An 18-year-old blonde known only as "Kay," a close friend of the murdered Nelson girl, has mysteriously disappeared. She vanished about the same time as Rita.

Perle Mesta Loses Post In Luxembourg

LUXEMBOURG, March 27 (AP)—U. S. Minister Perle Mesta, a Truman appointee who has described herself as "perfectly willing to stay in my present job" under the Eisenhower administration, isn't getting the chance.

The party-throwing lady diplomat from Oklahoma, the inspiration for "Call Me Madam" of stage and screen, announced today the Eisenhower administration has accepted the resignation she sent in last fall as a matter of political protocol and she is leaving April 13.

True to her record as a Democratic campaign worker, Mrs. Mesta backed Adlai S. Stevenson against her old friend Gen. Eisenhower in the 1952 presidential race. Republican action on her resignation had been delayed about three months.

In the four and a half centuries following Gutenberg's invention of printing, only two times as many books were written and sent to the press as in the years since 1900.

The strange case took a new twist when detectives tried to trace the movements of Rita Nelson, 24-year-old art student who was interested in a modeling career.

They pinned hopes on the prospect the shy fair-haired girl from Northern Ireland might have done a sketch of the killer. She liked to do pencil sketches of acquaintances at a Shepherd's Bush Restaurant where she worked as a part-time waitress while attending art school.

Scotland Yard issued a photograph of John Reginald Halliday Christie, 55, a trucking clerk wanted for questioning in connection with the finding of the four bodies in the ground-floor apartment at No. 10 Rillington - Place in the Down-at-the-Heels Notting Hill area where he had lived 15 years.

One of the women victims was Christie's 45-year-old wife.

Fears there may be other girl victims whose bodies have not yet been discovered led detectives to comb the horror apartment anew.

An 18-year-old blonde known only as "Kay," a close friend of the murdered Nelson girl, has mysteriously disappeared. She vanished about the same time as Rita.

Perle Mesta Loses Post In Luxembourg

LUXEMBOURG, March 27 (AP)—U. S. Minister Perle Mesta, a Truman appointee who has described herself as "perfectly willing to stay in my present job" under the Eisenhower administration, isn't getting the chance.

The party-throwing lady diplomat from Oklahoma, the inspiration for "Call Me Madam" of stage and screen, announced today the Eisenhower administration has accepted the resignation she sent in last fall as a matter of political protocol and she is leaving April 13.

True to her record as a Democratic campaign worker, Mrs. Mesta backed Adlai S. Stevenson against her old friend Gen. Eisenhower in the 1952 presidential race. Republican action on her resignation had been delayed about three months.

In the four and a half centuries following Gutenberg's invention of printing, only two times as many books were written and sent to the press as in the years since 1900.

Eisenhower's Niece To Be Festival Queen

Miss Eisenhower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Eisenhower of Charleroi, Penn., is studying medical technology at Penn State where her uncle, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, is president.

France And EDC Treaty

Magnifying glasses may be required to read between the lines of any joint statement issuing from the talks between leading French ministers and their opposite numbers in Washington. The French earnestly desire a commitment on financial aid, but the Eisenhower administration has been emphasizing our own budgetary problems.

Secretary of State Dulles has asked for concrete evidence of progress on the European Defense Community treaty by April 23, when the North Atlantic Council will meet. But French ratification of the treaty poses difficult political problems for Premier Mayer.

The treaty was signed in May 1952. Thereafter it was shelved in France by Mayer's predecessor, M. Pinay. Mayer was confirmed on January 7, 1953, only after he had agreed to delay ratification. This was a concession to de Gaullists, for the first time "supporting" a government. Within a week, however, Mayer was saying that the treaty would be submitted to the parliament "without delay."

The chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee in the French National Assembly is former Premier Faure, who believes formation of a European army should depend on Allied aid to France in the Indo-China fighting. The rapporteur to the committee, Jules Moch, opposes ratification. The supranational aspects of the treaty are disliked by General Koenig, rapporteur for the Defense Committee, which also must report the treaty.

Six controversial French protocols (conditions) to the treaty were accepted on March 24 by an interim committee of experts from the six European nations scheduled to contribute forces to the proposed army. These protocols, although unpublished officially, have been much in the news since early February. On February 2 Secretary of State Dulles, then in Paris, was reported "unhappy" at not having written texts of the reservations available.

Drafts of the protocols were formally circulated among EDC nations on February 18. The original demands, in the eyes of the London Economist, "everyone knew to be unacceptable." At a meeting in Rome a week later France agreed to rephrase them.

The original proposals, as set forth by diplomatic correspondents, would have: (1) allowed France to transfer its forces to overseas possessions in crises without EDC permission, (2) assured weighted voting in the EDC Council of Ministers for the full 50 years of the treaty, (3) extended to all non-German EDC forces in Germany the status enjoyed by British and American troops, (4) provided for new negotiations on foreign arms aid, (5) assured officers and men in the European army exactly the same footing as those in national forces, (6) allowed France to retain a national armaments industry and to ship weapons overseas.

The French public has yet to be taken into the confidence of its government on the content of the protocols. But with the treaty still before the Assembly, the followers of Foreign Minister Bidault—and Bidault himself (March 18)—urge a national referendum before adoption.

Big And Small Bombs

To keep the record straight it is necessary to note that the nuclear device exploded at Yucca Flat, Nev., last week was not an atomic weapon. That is, in the form it took in this test the fissionable material detonated there could not have been used in warfare.

But the distinction is of little practical importance, for it is obvious that the destruction wrapped up in this nuclear device can be packed as either a strategic or tactical weapon.

The Army made no bones about that when it invited correspondents to view some of the aircraft that are capable of carrying bombs similar to this device. One of the planes was a Republic F-84G Thunderjet, a single-engined jet fighter-bomber. Larger planes can deliver atomic bombs for strategic purposes. This one can serve a tactical end.

The big mobile rifle displayed for the first time on Inauguration Day is to be used later on in these tests to fire a shell with an atomic charge.

It is worth while to labor this point, though it has been known for some time that the armed forces were making great strides toward developing the atomic bomb as a tactical weapon. No one can doubt now—and that includes the Russians—that U. S. command of this new force as a military tool continues to grow.

Last week's was the 35th American nuclear explosion. The Russians are known to have managed three and the British one. All but two of the 35 have been experimental explosions, required to carry on development of atomic weapons. This seems to leave no doubt that the Russians lag far behind in this field. But this country cannot afford to fail to plan against the day when its advantage will no longer be insurance against attack.

British Flair

Among the various aspects from which it is possible to view Marshal Tito's visit to Britain, one of the most interesting is the demonstration that the British have not lost what might be called their imperial flair. A skeptic might suggest that the flair rested upon power, and that when Britain's power diminished the flair no longer could be exercised. The Tito visit proves otherwise.

Thus the Duke of Edinburgh, Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Minister Eden met the Yugoslavian dictator on his arrival in London, the queen had him to lunch at Buckingham Palace and much else that was ceremonial and flattering was done. It was done in the face of a considerable British opinion that such a welcome to a Communist dictator outraged British sensibilities.

It did not, however, outrage British tradition, which is all in the direction of accommodating British policies to hard facts, without concern for possible ideological paradoxes. The British have a sure touch in such matters, and while there are inevitable risks, it is their conviction that, in this instance, risk is better than stalemate.

If Tito's Yugoslavia, a Communist but no longer a Soviet satellite state, can be brought into closer and more effective co-operation with the West, above all in the field of defense, Britain seems to be willing to lend a hand to that end.

Editorialgraph

This is spring, according to the calendar, but according to a skeptic the season has not really arrived until there is an item in the papers of a house painter painting the wrong house.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Chorea Victim Is Jumpy

Rheumatic fever of the brain and St. Vitus' dance are the lay terms for chorea, a Greek word meaning dancing. In the middle ages many sufferers of the dancing plague sought relief by praying to St. Vitus, the patron saint of dancers and actors.

Chorea occurs principally in childhood and is almost unheard of after 20. It usually precedes or accompanies an attack of rheumatic fever, and nervousness is the first indication. The youngster stumbles when walking and when seated at the table may drop the knife or fork or spill the milk. Many children are scolded for these mishaps until the true cause is determined.

In other instances the teacher becomes suspicious when the little one develops trouble in writing or begins to grimace. The speech becomes indistinct and one of the usual tests is to ask the youngster to count rapidly up to 10 and then back to one. He has no difficulty with the first few numbers but thereafter speech becomes thick or he hesitates like a stutterer. A clucking sound may issue forth in speaking as a result of contraction of the tongue against the floor of the mouth. The afflicted tike is easily upset, which aggravates rather than helps his condition.

When the disease is more advanced the victim moves the arms, purposeless movements. Occasionally the extremities are waved about so vigorously that the bed must be padded with pillows or cotton to prevent the sick child from bruising himself. All such movements are increased by effort, excitement, and fatigue, but cease during sleep. Muscular weakness also occurs and may be so pronounced that the sufferer is unable to walk, talk, or even sit up.

Recovery is the rule but convalescence often is prolonged. The majority get well within six to eight weeks, whether treated or not, but for several months thereafter recurrences may follow periods of fatigue or excitement. The youngster should be kept in bed. Padded side boards will help to prevent the child from injuring himself or falling out of bed in periods of muscular overactivity. Drastic treatment, such as fever therapy or medications such as dilantin rarely are needed, altho sedatives often are used to control the bizarre movements and overcome anxiety.

Some authorities hesitate to associate rheumatic fever with Chorea and frown when the term, rheumatic fever of the brain, is mentioned. They point out that chorea may arise as a complication of several acute infections such as scarlet fever, pneumonia, and measles in which there is a toxic effect on the brain. Furthermore, children with chorea seldom if ever have any of the other manifestations of rheumatic fever such as swollen, painful joints, heart involvement, or fever, and the blood count and sedimentation rates generally are normal. On the other hand the combination of rheumatic fever and chorea is so common it is difficult not to consider the association as more than coincidence.

DAILY LIVER

R. A. writes: Would it be harmful to eat beef liver every day? This person prefers liver to all other meats.

REPLY

Not if the remainder of the meal contains other essential food elements.

TAKING THE PULSE

S. W. writes: Why does a doctor feel the pulse of a patient with the flu?

REPLY

Taking the pulse is part of any physical examination because the rate and rhythm of the beat give the physician a clew on how the illness is affecting the action of the heart. He will take your pulse the next time he is called whether it is for gall bladder attack or a boil on the end of the nose.

QUIT THINKING

U. writes: How can I learn how to stop drinking beer? I had a great shock about a year ago and every time I think about it I start drinking beer.

REPLY

Stop blaming the shock you had and begin blaming yourself. Most people have enough fortitude to handle their adversities without resorting to alcohol.

DAMAGED AIR SACS

P. H. writes: Can emphysema be cured?

REPLY

No, because the walls of the air sacs of the lungs have lost their elasticity and, like and old rubber band, cannot snap back. But several measures are available to compensate for the ill effects of the disorder.

NO SUBSTITUTE AVAILABLE

Mrs. G, writes: If the fallopian tubes must be removed because of infection, can they be replaced with plastic tubes?

REPLY

Not yet.

COUNT IT

Mrs. W. writes: Can a diabetic eat grapefruit?

REPLY

Yes. When grapefruit is eaten it should be calculated with the caloric intake of the rest of the diet.

French Miffed At Ike's Absence At Airport; Hawaiian Statehood Means Kiss Of Death To Capitol Hill Junkets; RFC Duns Texans

WASHINGTON — In diplomacy little things sometimes mean more than big issues. Thus the visit of French Premier Rene Mayer got off to a slightly bad start when President Eisenhower sent young Dick Nixon down to the airport to meet him.

The French were slightly miffed at this. Considering the fact that four top cabinet officials of France, plus an important 32-man delegation, were arriving, the French felt that Ike himself might well have met their premier. They had in mind, of course, the hearty welcome Ike gave Prime Minister Churchill and the fact that Mayer's chief promise on assuming office was that he would come to the United States to confer personally with Eisenhower.

Reason the President did not go to the airport was a matter of strict protocol. Mayer is only a prime minister, not the head of a state, and, according to protocal, President Eisenhower should go to meet only the head of a state. However, Harry Truman, who used to go down to the airport almost at the drop of a hat, has spoiled visiting dignitaries.

Aside from this, the French talks were pretty well set in advance, except on one big issue—the Saar.

The United States was ready, even before Premier Mayer arrived, to send much greater aid to Indo-China. The French now have a plan for training 54 new Viet Nam battalions and are asking the United States to arm and equip them. This is going to handicap part of our own rearmament program, but Secretary Dulles believes Indo-China is more important than Korea.

The French in turn came to Washington ready to present new protocols to the United European Army and to push its ratification this spring.

But the most important thing the French want is a private understanding with Secretary of State Dulles regarding the rich and controversial Saar, chief bone of contention between France and Germany. This Dulles has not been willing to give—for two reasons: 1. it's too complicated a problem; 2. It would cut the ground out from under Chancellor Adenauer of Germany just before his trip to the U. S. A.

Free Trip To Hawaii

One advantage of having Hawaii a territory rather than a state was that senators had an excuse to visit its sunny clime about once a year to investigate the prospects of statehood.

Recently, GOP Senator Butler of Nebraska gave members of his Insular Affairs Committee one last chance for a free trip to Hawaii before it becomes a state. But he also warned his colleagues privately that "it is important to convince the public that this is strictly a business trip."

After Hawaii is voted into the union, of course, Butler's committee will have no valid business in Hawaii, and the senators may have to pay their own expenses for a Waikiki Beach vacation.

However, Butler is having trouble getting all his committee members to go to Hawaii at once. Since the public might get suspicious of senators straying over one at a time and holding their own private hearings, Butler has sent them a warning letter, never meant to leak into print.

"It occurs to me," wrote Butler, "that it will . . . present a better appearance generally if those making the trip all go about the same period of time. Since a majority seem to favor the week beginning April , I am wondering if all those going could adjust their schedules so as to make the trip at that time . . .

"I have no desire to foreclose anyone whose engagements make it mandatory that he make the trip at an earlier date," Butler added. "Of course the committee decision authorizing each member to select his own time still holds, but I do think it important to convince the public that this is strictly a business trip."

Butler himself went to Hawaii last fall, is not going this spring.

NOTE—Nevada's Sen. George Malone, another champion government traveler, complicated the arrangements by suggesting behind closed doors that senators take their wives along.

Jesse Jones' Old Loan

The man who ruled the RFC longer than any other man in history, Jesse Jones, is now down in Houston, Texas, tending to his own knitting. But the other day he got a letter from the man now running the RFC pertaining to a matter 40 miles from Houston at Galveston, Texas.

The man now running the RFC, Harry McDonald, is a Republican appointed by Truman to the Securities and Exchange Commission who did such a good job that he later took over the RFC.

In trying to clean up delinquent RFC payments, McDonald ran across a $1,100,000 loan which Jesse Jones had made to the city of Galveston to build a municipal pier 12 years ago. The hotels of Galveston have built around the pier and use it for amusement purposes. However, interest payments have been slow and principal payments are far behind.

Finally, Mayor Herbert Cartright of Galveston came in to see RFC Administrator McDonald, offered to buy the pier for $100,000. With $1,100,000 of the taxpayers' money to protect, McDonald turned him down. The mayor raised the figure to $150,000. McDonald still said no. Last November, McDonald hinted, a lot of people, especially those in Texas, voted against any waste of the taxpayes' money so he felt that rule should apply in Galveston.

And in an effort to collect, McDonald wrote a letter to Jesse Jones, who made the Galveston loan in the first place. How, McDonald asked could the government get its money out of Galveston?

Jesse wrote back, promptly, courteously, succinctly.

He couldn't give any advice, he said, he just hadn't been to Galveston in 30 years.

NOTE—Dallas doesn't like Fort Worth; Houston doesn't like Galveston, and vice versa. But Galveston is 40 miles away.

WASHINGTON — The recent attack by a Czech Communist MIG-15 on an American fighter in Germany revealed hair-raising weakness in the way of United States combat planes in continental Europe.

It brought out that the United States has virtually no Sabre jets in Germany and very few elsewhere in Europe. Sabre jets are the only American planes now in use which are fast enough to cope with the Russian fighters.

Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, explained simply, tersely and bitterly when asked why there were not more Sabre jets in Germany to guard against Soviet attack or provocative incidents. "There just simply aren't enough to go around," he said.

Vandenberg explained that most of the speedy Sabre jets are being sent to Korea while "some have to be kept in the United States." A few are stationed in England and some of these last named have been transferred to Germany.

They are, however, pitifully and perhaps tragically few when compared to the thousands reported available to the Russians. Most of the United States planes in Germany are too slow to cope with the 600-mile per hour MIGs.

The existing situation poses the possibility that in the event of an all-out Soviet attack the Western Allies would quickly lose mastery of the air over Europe unless quick action is taken.

Budget Tough To Balance

The time when a balanced budget is "in sight" may be farther off than most Republicans hoped. Any thought that the Pentagon would volunteer to balance the federal budget went out the window with word that the Air Force was trying to save $250 million, and that Army and Navy cuts would be in the same "order of magnitude."

Air Force headquarters added that the pain caused by this modest pruning was being expressed in a flood of protests that programs vital to the nation's defenses are being eliminated or seriously injured.

If these goals are realized, however, the trimming will be less than $1 billion off the $50 billion a year military spending — the one place where economics must be made if there is to be any real dent in federal expenditures.

The armed forces contend that under political pressure exerted during the Presidential campaign, they presented absolutely tight, almost rock-bottom budgets for the coming year.

Now come new demands for expansion—more ammunition for Korea on the basis of Gen. James A. Fleet's testimony that there was never enough when he was in command of the ground forces— and for more and better jet fighters in view of Russian and satellite harrassing attacks along the Iron Curtain. Stepped-up production of key military weapons will mean more, not less, spending.

Talked In Russian

Gen. Vandenberg recalls that the first MIG-15s which tangled with United States fighters over Korea, were probably flown by Russians and drawn directly out of the Soviet air force. He said our pilots could hear the enemy airmen talking to each other over their radios and the language was "fluent Russian."

No proof of nationality, however, could be established because no body of a pilot was ever recovered when one of the MIGs was shot down. General Vandenberg indicated he believed subsequent enemy jets had been flown by Chinese and North Korean Communists who had been trained by Russians to fly the speedy craft.

WASHINGTON— Politically speaking, the Eisenhower administration hasn't learned the ropes yet — or it would not have allowed a serious factionalism to crop up in Congress and threaten party solidarity.

Aided and abetted by an alert and resourceful "left wing" which is ready to destroy Eisenhower politically after it has disposed of Senator McCarthy, the movement to sabotage the entire attack on communistic activity inside America has gained ground as a consequence of the unnecessary controversy over Charles E. Bohlen, ambassador-designate to Russia. To drive a wedge between Senators McCarthy, Bridges, McCarran and the White House is a deliberate aim of the "left wing."

There were times when the Republican party knew how to talk things over quietly ahead of time and to thresh out differences privately. It was only the Democrats who subjected themselves to the publicity of open friction. Now things have changed. It's the Republicans who show signs of inexperience and ineptitude in managing their own affairs.

For party solidarity is of the utmost importance to an administration which has a narrow majority in Congress, and the way to retain that solidarity is not to become involved in quarrels that are superfluous.

Ike's Action Wisest

The wisest thing that has been said to keep the friction from spreading further must be credited to President Eisenhower himself, who refused at his press conference on Thursday to be goaded into making an issue of the fact that congressional investigations of executive agencies to root out subversives are continuing.

The President showed a proper respect for the legislative branch of the government — much more than some of the critics are doing with their efforts to make it appear mandatory for the Senate to confirm immediately or automatically anybody a President appoints to an ambassadorship.

The specious cry was raised among some shortsighted supporters of Eisenhower that to oppose Bohlen was to show lack of confidence in the judgment or the integrity of the President and the secretary of State, who made the nomination. The controversy was hailed as an "acid test" of executive responsibility.

But it wasn't that way when the shoe was on the other foot.

Thus, when Charles Evans Hughes was nominated in February 1930 to be chief justice of the United States and the so-called "liberals," led by the late Senator Norris of Nebraska, declared he should not be confirmed because of his "past connections" with law clients, nobody in the "left wing" of those days rose up to defend the nomination on the ground that to oppose it was a smear or an attack on the judgment and integrity of President Hoover, who made the nomination.

Likewise, when in April 1930 Judge John J. Parker of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals was named by President Hoover to be associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, union labor rose up through the "McCarthys" on the floor of the Senate to cry that a Parker decision in a case on the "Yellow Dog" union contract made him a bad security risk for labor. Nobody on the "left wing" side was hesitant to smear the integrity of one of the finest judges America has ever had—and a man whom many labor leaders since have admitted should have been confirmed.

Then there was the case of Charles B. Warren of Michigan, who was named to be attorney general by President Coolidge. His confirmation was defeated by one vote in the Senate because critics thought his "past connections" in business would make him a bad security risk for the "left wing" in America. Nobody on the so-called progressive side in the Senate at that time said the executive's appointment of a cabinet officer was sacrosanct and that anybody a President wanted in his cabinet should automatically be confirmed.

Pauley's Name Withdrawn

When President Truman in January 1946 nominated Edwin Pauley of California to be under secretary of the Navy, with the idea that he would later become head of the Navy after Forrestal was elevated to the secretaryship of Defense, the late Harold Ickes, secretary of the Interior, opposed the nomination because of Mr. Pauley's oil connections. Ickes resigned from the cabinet in protest, and his views as given to Congress raised such a fuss that Pauley's name was withdrawn two months later. Nobody at that time in the "left wing" defended Mr. Pauley from attack on the ground that it was a lack of confidence in the judgment or integrity of Mr. Truman, who made the appointment. The row was all supposed to be in the public interest.

When former Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City, Democrat, was named by President Truman in August 1950 to be ambassador to Mexico, Senator Ives of New York made a futile effort to hold it up till O'Dwyer's alleged past connections with gambling and racketeering interests could be probed. Even though the nomination was plainly being made to take care of a Democratic party situation in New York City, from which O'Dwyer as a political factor was to be eliminated, there was no real investigation made before confirmation in the Senate. Was this in the public interest as the record stands today?

The members of the Senate have a solemn duty to perform in weighing the qualifications and personal history of every man who is nominated for high office and who is subject to confirmation "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate." In times like the present, the man who goes to Moscow as the American ambassador should be, like Caesar's wife, above all suspicion—and, in this case particularly, above political suspicion.

Events In Logan County

Those who live in big cities often assume that they have a monopoly on trouble. Recently I came across some events in Lincoln, Ill., a small town with a population of 14,362. It is in Logan County, which has a population of 30,671.

Such a community goes it agricultural way without much excitement and without much change. Yet Logan County had suddenly found itself involved in great issues, some of its residents being held in contempt of court, with the American Civil Liberties Union active in its affairs.

The trouble started when some of Lincoln's citizens organized a "Good Government Council," which took on the curious character of meeting in secret late at night. No reporters were permitted to attend, but the council issued releases to the local paper several days after the event. All this is no crime, but it developed rumors, gossip and considerable wonder as to what it is all about.

It is difficult to trace the origin of the excitement. Lincoln has a small Negro population which managed to get along all right until the Negroes were told that they were being discriminated against. Let me quote from "America's Hour of Decision," a report of the NAACP dated October 1952:

"The Lincoln Branch of the NAACP is but just two months old and has had a little difficulty with its own group to see the necessity of having one in the city its size, in spite of the flourishing prejudice and discrimination in its locality. There are about 10 or 15 Negroes in the community who are not as yet educated to the fact, that their membership is greatly needed as well as their support. These are the persons who . . . are afraid of doing something to anger the whites and might cause them to lose friendship or jobs . . ."

So, during the year 1952, accusations against public officials in the handling of funds, statements concerning juvenile delinquency, and all sorts of arguments that are heard in big cities like New York and Chicago hit this small town and ended up in its county court. Three men were held in contempt by Judge Frank S. Bevan in the case of The People vs. Nelson O. Howarth, et al. The judge stated the issue in a matter of "outrageous pleadings" as follows:

"The test is, and properly should be, does a pleading present an issue over which the court has jurisdiction of the subject matter — so it can properly give consideration to the subject matter, and does the pleading properly present an issue or does it contemptuously impede and hinder the progress of court in settlement of issues properly before it."

From the judge's decision, it is clear that he was faced by attitudes similar to those which Judge Medina had to contend with in the case of the Communist Eleven. He described what those whom he held in contempt were doing:

"The inaccuracy . . . was due to the failure of Nelson O. Howarth to use that degree of care and caution which as an attorney he owes to the court, and that care which, as an attorney, he owes to the persons who were to sign the document he was preparing to file in the court.

To the American Civil Liberties Union, this decision of the judge violated civil liberties and apparently a test case is being developed which may have the broadest implications. In effect, what is at issue is whether the constitutional right to petition the government permits a person to denounce another without providing adequate proof against those accused of various crimes, misdemeanors, etc.

In a small community, rumor and gossip can stir up an unpleasant reaction against individuals. The circulation of a petition accusing them of evil, even if not proved by evidence, creates the impression that where there is smoke there must be fire, even if the fire is lighted by those who wish the smoke to be seen.

The question that was being asked when I was in Illinois recently was, what could be the motive for all this sudden activity? What brought a Good Government Council to so small a community? Why did the American Civil Liberties Union barge into this case and who brought them into it? Why is a racial question being stirred in this rural community which has never before known any such problem?

France And EDC Treaty

Magnifying glasses may be required to read between the lines of any joint statement issuing from the talks between leading French ministers and their opposite numbers in Washington. The French earnestly desire a commitment on financial aid, but the Eisenhower administration has been emphasizing our own budgetary problems.

Secretary of State Dulles has asked for concrete evidence of progress on the European Defense Community treaty by April 23, when the North Atlantic Council will meet. But French ratification of the treaty poses difficult political problems for Premier Mayer.

The treaty was signed in May 1952. Thereafter it was shelved in France by Mayer's predecessor, M. Pinay. Mayer was confirmed on January 7, 1953, only after he had agreed to delay ratification. This was a concession to de Gaullists, for the first time "supporting" a government. Within a week, however, Mayer was saying that the treaty would be submitted to the parliament "without delay."

The chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee in the French National Assembly is former Premier Faure, who believes formation of a European army should depend on Allied aid to France in the Indo-China fighting. The rapporteur to the committee, Jules Moch, opposes ratification. The supranational aspects of the treaty are disliked by General Koenig, rapporteur for the Defense Committee, which also must report the treaty.

Six controversial French protocols (conditions) to the treaty were accepted on March 24 by an interim committee of experts from the six European nations scheduled to contribute forces to the proposed army. These protocols, although unpublished officially, have been much in the news since early February. On February 2 Secretary of State Dulles, then in Paris, was reported "unhappy" at not having written texts of the reservations available.

Drafts of the protocols were formally circulated among EDC nations on February 18. The original demands, in the eyes of the London Economist, "everyone knew to be unacceptable." At a meeting in Rome a week later France agreed to rephrase them.

The original proposals, as set forth by diplomatic correspondents, would have: (1) allowed France to transfer its forces to overseas possessions in crises without EDC permission, (2) assured weighted voting in the EDC Council of Ministers for the full 50 years of the treaty, (3) extended to all non-German EDC forces in Germany the status enjoyed by British and American troops, (4) provided for new negotiations on foreign arms aid, (5) assured officers and men in the European army exactly the same footing as those in national forces, (6) allowed France to retain a national armaments industry and to ship weapons overseas.

The French public has yet to be taken into the confidence of its government on the content of the protocols. But with the treaty still before the Assembly, the followers of Foreign Minister Bidault—and Bidault himself (March 18)—urge a national referendum before adoption.

Big And Small Bombs

To keep the record straight it is necessary to note that the nuclear device exploded at Yucca Flat, Nev., last week was not an atomic weapon. That is, in the form it took in this test the fissionable material detonated there could not have been used in warfare.

But the distinction is of little practical importance, for it is obvious that the destruction wrapped up in this nuclear device can be packed as either a strategic or tactical weapon.

The Army made no bones about that when it invited correspondents to view some of the aircraft that are capable of carrying bombs similar to this device. One of the planes was a Republic F-84G Thunderjet, a single-engined jet fighter-bomber. Larger planes can deliver atomic bombs for strategic purposes. This one can serve a tactical end.

The big mobile rifle displayed for the first time on Inauguration Day is to be used later on in these tests to fire a shell with an atomic charge.

It is worth while to labor this point, though it has been known for some time that the armed forces were making great strides toward developing the atomic bomb as a tactical weapon. No one can doubt now—and that includes the Russians—that U. S. command of this new force as a military tool continues to grow.

Last week's was the 35th American nuclear explosion. The Russians are known to have managed three and the British one. All but two of the 35 have been experimental explosions, required to carry on development of atomic weapons. This seems to leave no doubt that the Russians lag far behind in this field. But this country cannot afford to fail to plan against the day when its advantage will no longer be insurance against attack.

British Flair

Among the various aspects from which it is possible to view Marshal Tito's visit to Britain, one of the most interesting is the demonstration that the British have not lost what might be called their imperial flair. A skeptic might suggest that the flair rested upon power, and that when Britain's power diminished the flair no longer could be exercised. The Tito visit proves otherwise.

Thus the Duke of Edinburgh, Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Minister Eden met the Yugoslavian dictator on his arrival in London, the queen had him to lunch at Buckingham Palace and much else that was ceremonial and flattering was done. It was done in the face of a considerable British opinion that such a welcome to a Communist dictator outraged British sensibilities.

It did not, however, outrage British tradition, which is all in the direction of accommodating British policies to hard facts, without concern for possible ideological paradoxes. The British have a sure touch in such matters, and while there are inevitable risks, it is their conviction that, in this instance, risk is better than stalemate.

If Tito's Yugoslavia, a Communist but no longer a Soviet satellite state, can be brought into closer and more effective co-operation with the West, above all in the field of defense, Britain seems to be willing to lend a hand to that end.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Chorea Victim Is Jumpy

Rheumatic fever of the brain and St. Vitus' dance are the lay terms for chorea, a Greek word meaning dancing. In the middle ages many sufferers of the dancing plague sought relief by praying to St. Vitus, the patron saint of dancers and actors.

Chorea occurs principally in childhood and is almost unheard of after 20. It usually precedes or accompanies an attack of rheumatic fever, and nervousness is the first indication. The youngster stumbles when walking and when seated at the table may drop the knife or fork or spill the milk. Many children are scolded for these mishaps until the true cause is determined.

In other instances the teacher becomes suspicious when the little one develops trouble in writing or begins to grimace. The speech becomes indistinct and one of the usual tests is to ask the youngster to count rapidly up to 10 and then back to one. He has no difficulty with the first few numbers but thereafter speech becomes thick or he hesitates like a stutterer. A clucking sound may issue forth in speaking as a result of contraction of the tongue against the floor of the mouth. The afflicted tike is easily upset, which aggravates rather than helps his condition.

When the disease is more advanced the victim moves the arms, purposeless movements. Occasionally the extremities are waved about so vigorously that the bed must be padded with pillows or cotton to prevent the sick child from bruising himself. All such movements are increased by effort, excitement, and fatigue, but cease during sleep. Muscular weakness also occurs and may be so pronounced that the sufferer is unable to walk, talk, or even sit up.

Recovery is the rule but convalescence often is prolonged. The majority get well within six to eight weeks, whether treated or not, but for several months thereafter recurrences may follow periods of fatigue or excitement. The youngster should be kept in bed. Padded side boards will help to prevent the child from injuring himself or falling out of bed in periods of muscular overactivity. Drastic treatment, such as fever therapy or medications such as dilantin rarely are needed, altho sedatives often are used to control the bizarre movements and overcome anxiety.

Some authorities hesitate to associate rheumatic fever with Chorea and frown when the term, rheumatic fever of the brain, is mentioned. They point out that chorea may arise as a complication of several acute infections such as scarlet fever, pneumonia, and measles in which there is a toxic effect on the brain. Furthermore, children with chorea seldom if ever have any of the other manifestations of rheumatic fever such as swollen, painful joints, heart involvement, or fever, and the blood count and sedimentation rates generally are normal. On the other hand the combination of rheumatic fever and chorea is so common it is difficult not to consider the association as more than coincidence.

French Miffed At Ike's Absence At Airport; Hawaiian Statehood Means Kiss Of Death To Capitol Hill Junkets; RFC Duns Texans

WASHINGTON — In diplomacy little things sometimes mean more than big issues. Thus the visit of French Premier Rene Mayer got off to a slightly bad start when President Eisenhower sent young Dick Nixon down to the airport to meet him.

The French were slightly miffed at this. Considering the fact that four top cabinet officials of France, plus an important 32-man delegation, were arriving, the French felt that Ike himself might well have met their premier. They had in mind, of course, the hearty welcome Ike gave Prime Minister Churchill and the fact that Mayer's chief promise on assuming office was that he would come to the United States to confer personally with Eisenhower.

Reason the President did not go to the airport was a matter of strict protocol. Mayer is only a prime minister, not the head of a state, and, according to protocal, President Eisenhower should go to meet only the head of a state. However, Harry Truman, who used to go down to the airport almost at the drop of a hat, has spoiled visiting dignitaries.

Aside from this, the French talks were pretty well set in advance, except on one big issue—the Saar.

The United States was ready, even before Premier Mayer arrived, to send much greater aid to Indo-China. The French now have a plan for training 54 new Viet Nam battalions and are asking the United States to arm and equip them. This is going to handicap part of our own rearmament program, but Secretary Dulles believes Indo-China is more important than Korea.

The French in turn came to Washington ready to present new protocols to the United European Army and to push its ratification this spring.

But the most important thing the French want is a private understanding with Secretary of State Dulles regarding the rich and controversial Saar, chief bone of contention between France and Germany. This Dulles has not been willing to give—for two reasons: 1. it's too complicated a problem; 2. It would cut the ground out from under Chancellor Adenauer of Germany just before his trip to the U. S. A.

Free Trip To Hawaii

One advantage of having Hawaii a territory rather than a state was that senators had an excuse to visit its sunny clime about once a year to investigate the prospects of statehood.

Recently, GOP Senator Butler of Nebraska gave members of his Insular Affairs Committee one last chance for a free trip to Hawaii before it becomes a state. But he also warned his colleagues privately that "it is important to convince the public that this is strictly a business trip."

After Hawaii is voted into the union, of course, Butler's committee will have no valid business in Hawaii, and the senators may have to pay their own expenses for a Waikiki Beach vacation.

However, Butler is having trouble getting all his committee members to go to Hawaii at once. Since the public might get suspicious of senators straying over one at a time and holding their own private hearings, Butler has sent them a warning letter, never meant to leak into print.

"It occurs to me," wrote Butler, "that it will . . . present a better appearance generally if those making the trip all go about the same period of time. Since a majority seem to favor the week beginning April , I am wondering if all those going could adjust their schedules so as to make the trip at that time . . .

"I have no desire to foreclose anyone whose engagements make it mandatory that he make the trip at an earlier date," Butler added. "Of course the committee decision authorizing each member to select his own time still holds, but I do think it important to convince the public that this is strictly a business trip."

Butler himself went to Hawaii last fall, is not going this spring.

NOTE—Nevada's Sen. George Malone, another champion government traveler, complicated the arrangements by suggesting behind closed doors that senators take their wives along.

Jesse Jones' Old Loan

The man who ruled the RFC longer than any other man in history, Jesse Jones, is now down in Houston, Texas, tending to his own knitting. But the other day he got a letter from the man now running the RFC pertaining to a matter 40 miles from Houston at Galveston, Texas.

The man now running the RFC, Harry McDonald, is a Republican appointed by Truman to the Securities and Exchange Commission who did such a good job that he later took over the RFC.

In trying to clean up delinquent RFC payments, McDonald ran across a $1,100,000 loan which Jesse Jones had made to the city of Galveston to build a municipal pier 12 years ago. The hotels of Galveston have built around the pier and use it for amusement purposes. However, interest payments have been slow and principal payments are far behind.

Finally, Mayor Herbert Cartright of Galveston came in to see RFC Administrator McDonald, offered to buy the pier for $100,000. With $1,100,000 of the taxpayers' money to protect, McDonald turned him down. The mayor raised the figure to $150,000. McDonald still said no. Last November, McDonald hinted, a lot of people, especially those in Texas, voted against any waste of the taxpayes' money so he felt that rule should apply in Galveston.

And in an effort to collect, McDonald wrote a letter to Jesse Jones, who made the Galveston loan in the first place. How, McDonald asked could the government get its money out of Galveston?

Jesse wrote back, promptly, courteously, succinctly.

He couldn't give any advice, he said, he just hadn't been to Galveston in 30 years.

NOTE—Dallas doesn't like Fort Worth; Houston doesn't like Galveston, and vice versa. But Galveston is 40 miles away.

The wisest thing that has been said to keep the friction from spreading further must be credited to President Eisenhower himself, who refused at his press conference on Thursday to be goaded into making an issue of the fact that congressional investigations of executive agencies to root out subversives are continuing.

The President showed a proper respect for the legislative branch of the government — much more than some of the critics are doing with their efforts to make it appear mandatory for the Senate to confirm immediately or automatically anybody a President appoints to an ambassadorship.

The specious cry was raised among some shortsighted supporters of Eisenhower that to oppose Bohlen was to show lack of confidence in the judgment or the integrity of the President and the secretary of State, who made the nomination. The controversy was hailed as an "acid test" of executive responsibility.

But it wasn't that way when the shoe was on the other foot.

Thus, when Charles Evans Hughes was nominated in February 1930 to be chief justice of the United States and the so-called "liberals," led by the late Senator Norris of Nebraska, declared he should not be confirmed because of his "past connections" with law clients, nobody in the "left wing" of those days rose up to defend the nomination on the ground that to oppose it was a smear or an attack on the judgment and integrity of President Hoover, who made the nomination.

Likewise, when in April 1930 Judge John J. Parker of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals was named by President Hoover to be associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, union labor rose up through the "McCarthys" on the floor of the Senate to cry that a Parker decision in a case on the "Yellow Dog" union contract made him a bad security risk for labor. Nobody on the "left wing" side was hesitant to smear the integrity of one of the finest judges America has ever had—and a man whom many labor leaders since have admitted should have been confirmed.

Then there was the case of Charles B. Warren of Michigan, who was named to be attorney general by President Coolidge. His confirmation was defeated by one vote in the Senate because critics thought his "past connections" in business would make him a bad security risk for the "left wing" in America. Nobody on the so-called progressive side in the Senate at that time said the executive's appointment of a cabinet officer was sacrosanct and that anybody a President wanted in his cabinet should automatically be confirmed.

Pauley's Name Withdrawn

When President Truman in January 1946 nominated Edwin Pauley of California to be under secretary of the Navy, with the idea that he would later become head of the Navy after Forrestal was elevated to the secretaryship of Defense, the late Harold Ickes, secretary of the Interior, opposed the nomination because of Mr. Pauley's oil connections. Ickes resigned from the cabinet in protest, and his views as given to Congress raised such a fuss that Pauley's name was withdrawn two months later. Nobody at that time in the "left wing" defended Mr. Pauley from attack on the ground that it was a lack of confidence in the judgment or integrity of Mr. Truman, who made the appointment. The row was all supposed to be in the public interest.

When former Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City, Democrat, was named by President Truman in August 1950 to be ambassador to Mexico, Senator Ives of New York made a futile effort to hold it up till O'Dwyer's alleged past connections with gambling and racketeering interests could be probed. Even though the nomination was plainly being made to take care of a Democratic party situation in New York City, from which O'Dwyer as a political factor was to be eliminated, there was no real investigation made before confirmation in the Senate. Was this in the public interest as the record stands today?

The members of the Senate have a solemn duty to perform in weighing the qualifications and personal history of every man who is nominated for high office and who is subject to confirmation "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate." In times like the present, the man who goes to Moscow as the American ambassador should be, like Caesar's wife, above all suspicion—and, in this case particularly, above political suspicion.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Events In Logan County

Those who live in big cities often assume that they have a monopoly on trouble. Recently I came across some events in Lincoln, Ill., a small town with a population of 14,362. It is in Logan County, which has a population of 30,671.

Such a community goes it agricultural way without much excitement and without much change. Yet Logan County had suddenly found itself involved in great issues, some of its residents being held in contempt of court, with the American Civil Liberties Union active in its affairs.

The trouble started when some of Lincoln's citizens organized a "Good Government Council," which took on the curious character of meeting in secret late at night. No reporters were permitted to attend, but the council issued releases to the local paper several days after the event. All this is no crime, but it developed rumors, gossip and considerable wonder as to what it is all about.

It is difficult to trace the origin of the excitement. Lincoln has a small Negro population which managed to get along all right until the Negroes were told that they were being discriminated against. Let me quote from "America's Hour of Decision," a report of the NAACP dated October 1952:

"The Lincoln Branch of the NAACP is but just two months old and has had a little difficulty with its own group to see the necessity of having one in the city its size, in spite of the flourishing prejudice and discrimination in its locality. There are about 10 or 15 Negroes in the community who are not as yet educated to the fact, that their membership is greatly needed as well as their support. These are the persons who . . . are afraid of doing something to anger the whites and might cause them to lose friendship or jobs . . ."

So, during the year 1952, accusations against public officials in the handling of funds, statements concerning juvenile delinquency, and all sorts of arguments that are heard in big cities like New York and Chicago hit this small town and ended up in its county court. Three men were held in contempt by Judge Frank S. Bevan in the case of The People vs. Nelson O. Howarth, et al. The judge stated the issue in a matter of "outrageous pleadings" as follows:

"The test is, and properly should be, does a pleading present an issue over which the court has jurisdiction of the subject matter — so it can properly give consideration to the subject matter, and does the pleading properly present an issue or does it contemptuously impede and hinder the progress of court in settlement of issues properly before it."

From the judge's decision, it is clear that he was faced by attitudes similar to those which Judge Medina had to contend with in the case of the Communist Eleven. He described what those whom he held in contempt were doing:

"The inaccuracy . . . was due to the failure of Nelson O. Howarth to use that degree of care and caution which as an attorney he owes to the court, and that care which, as an attorney, he owes to the persons who were to sign the document he was preparing to file in the court.

To the American Civil Liberties Union, this decision of the judge violated civil liberties and apparently a test case is being developed which may have the broadest implications. In effect, what is at issue is whether the constitutional right to petition the government permits a person to denounce another without providing adequate proof against those accused of various crimes, misdemeanors, etc.

In a small community, rumor and gossip can stir up an unpleasant reaction against individuals. The circulation of a petition accusing them of evil, even if not proved by evidence, creates the impression that where there is smoke there must be fire, even if the fire is lighted by those who wish the smoke to be seen.

The question that was being asked when I was in Illinois recently was, what could be the motive for all this sudden activity? What brought a Good Government Council to so small a community? Why did the American Civil Liberties Union barge into this case and who brought them into it? Why is a racial question being stirred in this rural community which has never before known any such problem?

Her fingertip length veil of bridal illusion is held by a Chantilly lace cap with lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a necklace of cultured pearls, a gift from her parents. Completing her costume, she is carrying a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations centered with white carnations.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You can be the most prodigious gardener, yet have exquisite hands if you own the right kind of work gloves. Just about the best can be easily and quickly made from a discarded pair of chamois, kid or other light-weight leather. Every gardening enthusiast should get a pair ready at once to be sure that her hands keep as petal-smooth as her loveliest flowers.

The gloves I'm about to tell you how to make are about as different from the clumsy, cumbersome work-type that bruise seedlings as baby's breath is from a dahlia. Because they are made from light-weight leather they fit like a second skin and can handle the most delicate transplant without inflicting harm.

For Garden Enthusiasts

What turns your old gloves into airy working wonders is peppering their topsides (not the palms) with tiny perforations. You can do this neatly with an ice pick, awl or darning needle, a wooden spoon and a wooden clothes pin.

With this equipment assembled, heat the point of your punching instrument over an open flame. Insert your wooden spoon into the body of the glove, stretching the upper part of the glove's hand tightly over it. Touch the hot point to the leather. Repeat until you have several dozen tiny perforations. Then insert the clothes pin and work on the upper side of the fingers. In a matter of moments you will achieve a hundred or more perfect aperatures that will not stretch or close because the heat used for opening them seals their perimeters at the same time.

The next step is to proof the palms and undersides of the fingers against damp. You do this by applying two coats of reliable plastic spray, being sure to seal the seams thoroughly.

Petal Hands

Your gloves are now ready for work. To give yourself a beauty treatment while you garden, be sure to slather your nails with cuticle oil and your hands with rich emollient just before you put your gloves on.

After gardening, remove your gloves and hang them to dry. Then brush off any dirt that clings to them. Gloves so prepared may also be washed. Between wearing, wrap them in foil or wax paper.

Never garden without your gloves and while you proudly arrange your blossoms into bouquets this summer, your hands will look as lovely as your blossoms!

Educator Likes TV Close-Up's Effectiveness

BALTIMORE, March 26 (AP)—The Baltimore Department of Education said today that "the close-up shot is one of TV's greatest offerings to education."

School Superintendent John H. Fischer made the statement in reporting on an emergency program of television and radio instruction, conducted in Baltimore in January when schools were closed by a maintenance strike.

Dr. Fischer said "some generalizations" could be drawn from a study on the effectiveness of the program, based on questionnaires filled out by parents, teachers and children.

He said television teaching has its limits. No provision can be made for individual differences among children watching the program, and there is no opportunity for children to ask questions.

"On the other hand," the report continued, "television does seem to have a definite place in the scheme of modern education. The impact of immediacy, seeing the thing as it happens, is a powerful force.

"TV can present personalities, skills and material which are not easily obtained . . . TV can make available scientific and other demonstrations that would ordinarily be available to close study to only a few at a time. The close-up shot is one of TV's greatest offerings to education."

Educator Likes TV Close-Up's Effectiveness

BALTIMORE, March 26 (AP)—The Baltimore Department of Education said today that "the close-up shot is one of TV's greatest offerings to education."

School Superintendent John H. Fischer made the statement in reporting on an emergency program of television and radio instruction, conducted in Baltimore in January when schools were closed by a maintenance strike.

Dr. Fischer said "some generalizations" could be drawn from a study on the effectiveness of the program, based on questionnaires filled out by parents, teachers and children.

He said television teaching has its limits. No provision can be made for individual differences among children watching the program, and there is no opportunity for children to ask questions.

"On the other hand," the report continued, "television does seem to have a definite place in the scheme of modern education. The impact of immediacy, seeing the thing as it happens, is a powerful force.

"TV can present personalities, skills and material which are not easily obtained . . . TV can make available scientific and other demonstrations that would ordinarily be available to close study to only a few at a time. The close-up shot is one of TV's greatest offerings to education."

If speech was made to disguise thoughts you have an invitation to the masquerade.

We admire the British diplomatic handling of the Lincoln bomber deal east of Hamburg. They say an incident is not an episode. An episode is not an event. And an event is not a cause celebre.

We dropped one of our planes the same week inside our own lines. It was Migged.

Migged is a new word that's too old already.

When two play at the same game it's not a game anymore. We'll say the Democracies have the patience of Job picking fleas off a porcupine with boxing gloves on.

If this is before another Munich we hope we don't see an appeaser using an umbrella for a baton.

DEFEAT and VICTORY

One hundred sixty-two feet high and one hundred forty-seven feet wide Napoleon built his arch of triumph. Proudly it rises above the Place de l'Etoile reminding the world of an Emperor's early victories—and later defeats.

On the road from Bethphage to Jerusalem centuries before there had been another arch of triumph. Nature had fashioned it of palm trees. Beneath their bowing branches the Prince of Peace rode into the city that was to crucify Him.

Jesus, unlike Napoleon, never had need of a gigantic monument to help the world remember Him. The doors of a million churches bespeak His victory. Men pass through them not to gaze upon the majesty of carved stone, but to worship and serve the Son of God.

Napoleon bought for himself a transient glory at the price of other men's blood.

Jesus bought for All Men eternal life—at the price of His Own Blood!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

DEFEAT and VICTORY

One hundred sixty-two feet high and one hundred forty-seven feet wide Napoleon built his arch of triumph. Proudly it rises above the Place de l'Etoile reminding the world of an Emperor's early victories—and later defeats.

On the road from Bethphage to Jerusalem centuries before there had been another arch of triumph. Nature had fashioned it of palm trees. Beneath their bowing branches the Prince of Peace rode into the city that was to crucify Him.

Jesus, unlike Napoleon, never had need of a gigantic monument to help the world remember Him. The doors of a million churches bespeak His victory. Men pass through them not to gaze upon the majesty of carved stone, but to worship and serve the Son of God.

Napoleon bought for himself a transient glory at the price of other men's blood.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Jones Changes Guilty Plea In Shooting Case

Associate Judge George Henderson accepted a motion in Circuit Court yesterday by Earl E. Manges, attorney for Raymond H. Jones, 35, of LaVale, to withdraw a plea of guilty and enter a not guilty plea for Jones to a charge of assault with intent to kill.

A guilty plea had been entered Monday by Manges for his client, accused of firing a shotgun at Mrs. Helen Roberts, 36, of Bellevue Street, but today the attorney said his client wished to stand trial at the April term of criminal court.

Judge Henderson said Manges' statements to the court on Monday, after the guilty plea had been entered, that "Jones had shot at the woman only to scare her" could not be accepted in view of the plea. The jurist indicated the court would have had to pass sentence calling for a prison term if the original plea had not been changed. Jones said the woman was "meddling in his domestic affairs."

Manges explained to the court his client plead guilty Monday to a "technical charge of assault with intent to kill" but there were mitigating circumstances which the court was being asked to consider. Judge Henderson reminded Manges that a plea of guilty to assault with intent to kill was just that and it was not proper to attempt to evade the responsibility of the plea.

In another case heard yesterday, Judge Henderson indicated he would suspend sentence on Sherman Summers, 27-year-old Frostburg man charged with statutory burglary in the theft of $1,000 from Lucky's Liquor Store in Frostburg. Summers entered a guilty plea through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan. The theft took place in 1951 and Summers was returned here from Philadelphia several weeks ago.

The court said no sentence will be passed in the case until after Summers arranges to sell a 1941 auto he purchased in Philadelphia and makes plans for restitution.

Bedford Man New Attorney For Evitts Creek Water Co.

The appointment of Charles M. Koontz as solicitor of the Evitts Creek Water Company was announced yesterday by Mayor Roy W. Eves.

Koontz, Bedford attorney, replaces Richard C. Snyder, also of Bedford, who resigned due to his appointment as judge of the courts of Bedford County. Judge Snyder's term will run until January, 1956.

The Evitts Creek Water Company is the Pennsylvania corporation that operates the Cumberland water supply holdings.

Koontz and Snyder conferred with the Mayor and Miss Mary Clay, the mayor's secretary, who also serves as secretary of the water company, on changes in the corporation made necessary by the resignation and appointment.

A special meeting will be called soon, Mayor Eves said, for the election of a director to replace Judge Snyder.

Also the company will conduct business in connection with the purchase of additional land adjacent to the two dams in Pennsylvania located nine miles from Cumberland.

Koontz is serving his sixth year as district attorney for Bedford County. He was admitted to the Bedford County Bar in 1938 and then served as a law clerk in the office of the U. S. District judge in Scranton, Pa., until World War II duty in the Navy.

The Iberian peninsula is occupied by Spain and Portugal.

Jones Changes Guilty Plea In Shooting Case

Associate Judge George Henderson accepted a motion in Circuit Court yesterday by Earl E. Manges, attorney for Raymond H. Jones, 35, of LaVale, to withdraw a plea of guilty and enter a not guilty plea for Jones to a charge of assault with intent to kill.

A guilty plea had been entered Monday by Manges for his client, accused of firing a shotgun at Mrs. Helen Roberts, 36, of Bellevue Street, but today the attorney said his client wished to stand trial at the April term of criminal court.

Judge Henderson said Manges' statements to the court on Monday, after the guilty plea had been entered, that "Jones had shot at the woman only to scare her" could not be accepted in view of the plea. The jurist indicated the court would have had to pass sentence calling for a prison term if the original plea had not been changed. Jones said the woman was "meddling in his domestic affairs."

Manges explained to the court his client plead guilty Monday to a "technical charge of assault with intent to kill" but there were mitigating circumstances which the court was being asked to consider. Judge Henderson reminded Manges that a plea of guilty to assault with intent to kill was just that and it was not proper to attempt to evade the responsibility of the plea.

In another case heard yesterday, Judge Henderson indicated he would suspend sentence on Sherman Summers, 27-year-old Frostburg man charged with statutory burglary in the theft of $1,000 from Lucky's Liquor Store in Frostburg. Summers entered a guilty plea through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan. The theft took place in 1951 and Summers was returned here from Philadelphia several weeks ago.

The court said no sentence will be passed in the case until after Summers arranges to sell a 1941 auto he purchased in Philadelphia and makes plans for restitution.

Bedford Man New Attorney For Evitts Creek Water Co.

The appointment of Charles M. Koontz as solicitor of the Evitts Creek Water Company was announced yesterday by Mayor Roy W. Eves.

Koontz, Bedford attorney, replaces Richard C. Snyder, also of Bedford, who resigned due to his appointment as judge of the courts of Bedford County. Judge Snyder's term will run until January, 1956.

The Evitts Creek Water Company is the Pennsylvania corporation that operates the Cumberland water supply holdings.

Koontz and Snyder conferred with the Mayor and Miss Mary Clay, the mayor's secretary, who also serves as secretary of the water company, on changes in the corporation made necessary by the resignation and appointment.

A special meeting will be called soon, Mayor Eves said, for the election of a director to replace Judge Snyder.

Also the company will conduct business in connection with the purchase of additional land adjacent to the two dams in Pennsylvania located nine miles from Cumberland.

Koontz is serving his sixth year as district attorney for Bedford County. He was admitted to the Bedford County Bar in 1938 and then served as a law clerk in the office of the U. S. District judge in Scranton, Pa., until World War II duty in the Navy.

27 School Buses Found Defective

Sixty of the 87 buses and all seven passenger cars used in transporting pupils to school in Allegany County were found without defects in the periodic inspection conducted this week, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation.

Twelve of the 27 buses with defects were classed as major items. Five were found with defects in steering mechanism. Included were three faulty king pins and two faulty tie rods. Four others were cited for exhaust system. Three had defective tail pipes and another had a defective connection between the muffler and tail pipe. Three other buses had fire extinguishers not considered up to standard.

Other defects, classed as minor, involved primarily burned out bulbs in the lighting system. Among these were two tail lights, five turn signals, four clearance lights, two rear stop lights and two blinker warning signals.

Ramey said that all contractors are being instructed to have repairs made promptly with a recheck to be made after the Easter vacation period. Date for the recheck will be named later.

ASSET OR LIABILITY?

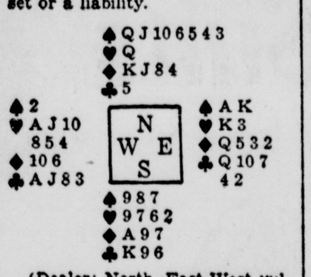
ONE characteristic common to the bidding of nearly all high-ranking players is their objection to being shut out of the auction by a high suit bid by an opponent. After a call of three, especially in a major suit, it is seldom that either member of the other side has a strong enough hand to make positive action truly safe. Usually the power of such a hand is only sufficient to be protected if the partner holds pretty good values. Sometimes, of course, that is not the case. Whether to act or not over such a pre-empt is therefore largely a matter of guesswork. Hence a tendency to refuse being shut out can be either an asset or a liability.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 3 ♠ | 3 NT | Pass | 4 ♥ |
| Pass | Pass | 4 ♠ | 5 ♥ |

West made an unbid grand slam in that contract, or two extra tricks, after North led the spade Q. A diamond was discarded on the second spade honor to assure one extra, the heart K removed the Q, the club Q was covered by the K and A, three more trumps were scored, and the clubs enabled West to discard his remaining diamond. Of course the "impossible" lead of a diamond would hold West to exactly his bid of five-odd.

It might seem, therefore, that East and West bid with absolute accuracy despite the barrier erected against them. But, if you asked them, they would lay claim to no such precision. East, with a hand on which he would not even bid 1-No Trump as an opener, nevertheless had bid 3-No Trumps, thereby taking a terrific risk if he had found South loaded with a majority of the missing strength, in which event a business double could have annihilated the good score he had amassed earlier in the evening.

The 3-Spades bid would have paid a heavy diyidend if it had shut out the vulnerable game, as it could have been beaten probably a mere single trick. As the cards were, a 5-Spades sacrifice over the 5-Hearts would have been worth while.

Your Weekend Question

What is the principal reason for bidding the higher-ranking of two equal-length adjoining suits—such as spades and hearts, hearts and diamonds or diamonds and clubs—first? Why is that generally a good policy to observe despite the fact that the lower-ranking suit is stronger?

The cadets will hold a swimming party at Central YMCA April 6. Thursday's meeting at the Shrine City Club was devoted to a study of wing construction and weather maps.

Five Day Week

Legislation was slated to be introduced yesterday by Senator Kimble to provide a five-day, 40 hour week for members of the Cumberland Police Department, and a five-day week for firemen.

The Mayor and Council this week went on record as favoring the plan if funds were available when the budget was set this fall. Unless economies were made, the plan would add 6½ cents to the tax rate.

Drops License Cost

The senator will also sponsor a plan to make the cost of restaurant and tavern liquor licenses the same. The Delegation has agreed the $1,000 tavern and $600 restaurant license fees should be dropped to $500.

Belt Route Bonds

Senator Kimble will also introduce a bill to provide a $150,000 bond issue, without referendum, to secure land for the Industrial Highway in South Cumberland.

Bills Defeated

Del. Horace P. Whitworth's bill to change the method of paying Orphans Court judges in this county from a daily basis to a salary basis was given an unfavorable report in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Senator Kimble asked in a special order of business that the Whitworth bill, which passed the House of Delegates, be re-considered. He argued for its passage, but the Senate voted the bill down.

Opposing senators and the judiciary committee said it was not feasible to pay that type of judge on a salary basis.

Mine Operations Are Resumed

Georges Creek had flooded the mine and a drain tunnel which runs about 1,000 feet below the surface of Hoffman Hill, about ten miles southwest of Cumberland.

Swollen by recent heavy rains, the creek had broken through the ground into the mine. The tunnel, which formerly drained water from many mines in the area, also flooded as the water backed up.

Yesterday the creek had been diverted to its normal course and a small crew returned to work at Ocean No. 1, one of the few mines still productive in the Georges Creek area.

The Mayor and Council this week went on record as favoring the plan if funds were available when the budget was set this fall. Unless economies were made, the plan would add 6½ cents to the tax rate.

Drops License Cost

The senator will also sponsor a plan to make the cost of restaurant and tavern liquor licenses the same. The Delegation has agreed the $1,000 tavern and $600 restaurant license fees should be dropped to $500.

Belt Route Bonds

Senator Kimble will also introduce a bill to provide a $150,000 bond issue, without referendum, to secure land for the Industrial Highway in South Cumberland.

Bills Defeated

Del. Horace P. Whitworth's bill to change the method of paying Orphans Court judges in this county from a daily basis to a salary basis was given an unfavorable report in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Senator Kimble asked in a special order of business that the Whitworth bill, which passed the House of Delegates, be re-considered. He argued for its passage, but the Senate voted the bill down.

Opposing senators and the judiciary committee said it was not feasible to pay that type of judge on a salary basis.

Mine Operations Are Resumed

Georges Creek had flooded the mine and a drain tunnel which runs about 1,000 feet below the surface of Hoffman Hill, about ten miles southwest of Cumberland.

Swollen by recent heavy rains, the creek had broken through the ground into the mine. The tunnel, which formerly drained water from many mines in the area, also flooded as the water backed up.

Yesterday the creek had been diverted to its normal course and a small crew returned to work at Ocean No. 1, one of the few mines still productive in the Georges Creek area.

Equity Suits Filed

Three equity suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Dora M. Crider vs. Woodrow W. Crider, James E. McKenney vs. Betty A. McKenney and Eleanor McMillan vs. Frank L. McMillan.

As You Were

Here's a young man who wanted to be a boxer but his uncle Charley said "No" so he turned to managing and seconding amateur and professional scrappers.

One of his best bets was a featherweight named Jimmy Lamberson from La-Porte, Indiana. Lamberson fought 14 matches under this fellow's wing, won them all and left Cumberland. Jimmy later boxed in Atlantic City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

In the amateurs he handled Abby Eyler, Austin Ward, Frankie Smith, Bill Niland, Bobby Shrout and Harold Clayton. They all turned pro but Clayton. He also managed Raymond "Buck" Griffith and Lester "Buster" Reed, local professionals. Reed is now a member of the Maryland House of Delegates.

This young man was instrumental in bringing Joe Proctor, the "Fighting Bank Clerk" of Washington, D. C., to Cumberland for three bouts. Proctor kayoed "Socko" Trenaman twice and lost a decision to Harold Scarney of Youngstown, Ohio.

In the 1930s this young fight pilot dropped out of the cauliflowered ear spotlight after Lamberson's bout with "Sparrows" Kesner of Keyser at the Mountain State Forest Festival in Elkins, W. Va.

His brothers owned a Baltimore street hotel and restaurant while his uncle Charley was once the proprietor of the Liberty Theater. His brother Gus, now retired in Washington, D. C., was Cumberland's initial volunteer in the First World War and was severely wounded in France. He has an artificial shoulder and carries the battle scars where he was shot through the jaw.

In 1920 this youngster came to this country from Europe. He attended Allegany High in Green street and served in the Maryland National Guard with Company G four years.

What's his name?

Pro Cage League Ref Is Convicted Of Taking Bribes

Sol Levy Is Accused Of Accepting $2,900

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Sol Levy, 41, of Brooklyn, a former referee, was convicted today of taking bribes to fix scores of professional basketball games by his calling of fouls.

Levy, who refereed for the National Basketball Association, faces a possible maximum sentence of six years imprisonment and $3,000 in fines. Levy paled at the verdict. He was continued in $15,000 bail pending sentencing April 22.

Three justices, by a two to one vote, found him guilty on six counts of a seven count indictment.

Levy was accused of accepting $2,900 in bribes from Salvatore Sallazzo, convicted briber who also figured in the college basketball fix scandal, to manipulate scores in the 1950-51 season.

British Writer Would Bar Bing, Hope From Golf

Says Americans Make Amateur Cheap Circus

LONDON, March 27 (AP)—A sports writer for one of Britain's biggest newspapers said today Crooner Bing Crosby and Comedian Bob Hope should be barred from taking part in the British amateur golf championship at Hoylake in May.

The same applies, said Daily Express Columnist Desmond Hackett, to various "elderly American business men" who somehow turn up on the entry list year after year.

Hackett is one of Britain's most outspoken critics of America.

Crosby is en route to England for the tournament but Hope's entry has not been announced.

Hackett accused Crosby of turning the 1950 amateur at St. Andrews into a cheap circus and said Hope "made an ass of himself and a bigger ass of British golf when he clowned around in the amateur at Porthawl two years ago."

Hackett complained female Crosby fans at St. Andrews "ran screaming all over the course, treading through bunkers, stamping their ignorance on the greens with high heeled stampeding shoes."

"He added:

"Big Crosby is entitled like any other golf-minded citizen to enter for THE amateur so long as he complies with the rules which set down plainly but firmly 'I am eligible under conditions of the championship and have a handicap not exceeding three strokes.'

"If Bing Crosby can play to three then I am entitled to top billing at the Palladium."

The Palladium is London's top variety theater.

Snead Leads In Tourney

Horton Smith Trails By Stroke With 68

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 27 (AP)—Sam Snead took time out from his fishing today long enough to hand par a three-stroke whipping and take a one stroke lead in the opening round of the $10,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., slammer, winner of this event four times since its inaugural in 1938, sped over the par 70 Sedgefield Club course in 32-25—67. A few minutes later he was off to a nearby lake for an afternoon of fishing.

A stroke back of Snead came Horton Smith, president of the Professional Golfer's Association of America, who turned in a pair of 34s and Ed (Porky) Oliver, the round man from Palm Springs, Calif., who had 36-32 for his 68.

Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and seven professionals turned in one under par 70s for the 6,720-yard route to tie for fourth place, two strokes back of Snead.

Par 70 was notched by six pros and eight others were locked at 71 going into tomorrow's second round. Rhirty-six holes on Sunday will wind up the tournament.

Pep Granted License To Box In New York

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Little Willie Pep apologized to the New York Athletic Commission today and was granted a license to box again in the state.

The former featherweight champion had his license revoked 17 months ago for foul tactics in his title fight with Sandy Saddler Sept. 26, 1951. Saddler, current champion now in the Army, was suspended for two months at the time.

"I'm sorry over the way I acted," said the 30-year-old Hartford, Conn. boxer. "I won't lose my head again."

Covalli Rides Outback To Win In Bowie Race

Rowe Memorial 'Cap Heads Today's Card

Bowie, Md., March 27 (AP)—Bowie Race Course, the pride of Southern Maryland and Larry MacPhail, got the East's major racing season off to a cool but dry start today.

The crowd of 10,046 was about the same as for last Nov. 17 when MacPhail opened his newly rebuilt track in a cloudburst that washed away much of the racing strip and caused a suspension of operations after only two races had been run.

There was no stakes race for today's inaugural, the best event being the seven furlongs Severn Purse, won in the final sixteenth of a mile by Mrs. A. B. Eklof's Outback.

Jockey John Covalli hustled the four-year-old son of Ujiji-Mint Julep under the wire a half length ahead of Eddie Yowell's March Brat, third choice in the betting at 9 to 2. Another length away in third place was the Carolyn K Stable's High Trend, second choice in the mutuels at 7 to 2.

Outback, which paid $24.00, $12.80 and $8.80 in this day of liberal prices, was clocked in the good time of 1:24 2-5 on a track that was fast despite heavy mid-week rains.

There were 87 lucky ticket holders on the daily double which paid $573.40 on the combination of Ayem, $31.20, in the first race, and Blondette, $10.00, in the second.

"We'll have a good meeting if we get any weather," said MacPhail. "Last fall we had the worst 18 days I ever saw, with six and a half inches of rain 36 hours before we opened. That was the first rain in 10 months, and it really tore up the place.

"For a cold day, today is very satisfactory."

The first stake race here will be the 2nd running of the Rowe Memorial Handicap, a three-quarter mile dash for three-year-olds and up, tomorrow. Eleven sharp sprinters were entered for the event, headed by Mrs. Samuel M. Pistorio's Tuscany, highweight under 122 pounds. Tuscany, bay five-year-old son of The Rhymer, won the Rowe last year, but injured a foot and hasn't raced since last spring at Laurel.

As You Were

Here's a young man who wanted to be a boxer but his uncle Charley said "No" so he turned to managing and seconding amateur and professional scrappers.

One of his best bets was a featherweight named Jimmy Lamberson from La-Porte, Indiana. Lamberson fought 14 matches under this fellow's wing, won them all and left Cumberland. Jimmy later boxed in Atlantic City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

In the amateurs he handled Abby Eyler, Austin Ward, Frankie Smith, Bill Niland, Bobby Shrout and Harold Clayton. They all turned pro but Clayton. He also managed Raymond "Buck" Griffith and Lester "Buster" Reed, local professionals. Reed is now a member of the Maryland House of Delegates.

This young man was instrumental in bringing Joe Proctor, the "Fighting Bank Clerk" of Washington, D. C., to Cumberland for three bouts. Proctor kayoed "Socko" Trenaman twice and lost a decision to Harold Scarney of Youngstown, Ohio.

In the 1930s this young fight pilot dropped out of the cauliflowered ear spotlight after Lamberson's bout with "Sparrows" Kesner of Keyser at the Mountain State Forest Festival in Elkins, W. Va.

His brothers owned a Baltimore street hotel and restaurant while his uncle Charley was once the proprietor of the Liberty Theater. His brother Gus, now retired in Washington, D. C., was Cumberland's initial volunteer in the First World War and was severely wounded in France. He has an artificial shoulder and carries the battle scars where he was shot through the jaw.

In 1920 this youngster came to this country from Europe. He attended Allegany High in Green street and served in the Maryland National Guard with Company G four years.

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Sol Levy, 41, of Brooklyn, a former referee, was convicted today of taking bribes to fix scores of professional basketball games by his calling of fouls.

Three justices, by a two to one vote, found him guilty on six counts of a seven count indictment.

Levy was accused of accepting $2,900 in bribes from Salvatore Sallazzo, convicted briber who also figured in the college basketball fix scandal, to manipulate scores in the 1950-51 season.

British Writer Would Bar Bing, Hope From Golf

Says Americans Make Amateur Cheap Circus

LONDON, March 27 (AP)—A sports writer for one of Britain's biggest newspapers said today Crooner Bing Crosby and Comedian Bob Hope should be barred from taking part in the British amateur golf championship at Hoylake in May.

The same applies, said Daily Express Columnist Desmond Hackett, to various "elderly American business men" who somehow turn up on the entry list year after year.

Hackett is one of Britain's most outspoken critics of America.

Crosby is en route to England for the tournament but Hope's entry has not been announced.

Hackett accused Crosby of turning the 1950 amateur at St. Andrews into a cheap circus and said Hope "made an ass of himself and a bigger ass of British golf when he clowned around in the amateur at Porthawl two years ago."

Hackett complained female Crosby fans at St. Andrews "ran screaming all over the course, treading through bunkers, stamping their ignorance on the greens with high heeled stampeding shoes."

"He added:

"Big Crosby is entitled like any other golf-minded citizen to enter for THE amateur so long as he complies with the rules which set down plainly but firmly 'I am eligible under conditions of the championship and have a handicap not exceeding three strokes.'

"If Bing Crosby can play to three then I am entitled to top billing at the Palladium."

The Palladium is London's top variety theater.

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 27 (AP)—Sam Snead took time out from his fishing today long enough to hand par a three-stroke whipping and take a one stroke lead in the opening round of the $10,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., slammer, winner of this event four times since its inaugural in 1938, sped over the par 70 Sedgefield Club course in 32-25—67. A few minutes later he was off to a nearby lake for an afternoon of fishing.

A stroke back of Snead came Horton Smith, president of the Professional Golfer's Association of America, who turned in a pair of 34s and Ed (Porky) Oliver, the round man from Palm Springs, Calif., who had 36-32 for his 68.

Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and seven professionals turned in one under par 70s for the 6,720-yard route to tie for fourth place, two strokes back of Snead.

Par 70 was notched by six pros and eight others were locked at 71 going into tomorrow's second round. Rhirty-six holes on Sunday will wind up the tournament.

Covalli Rides Outback To Win In Bowie Race

Rowe Memorial 'Cap Heads Today's Card

Bowie, Md., March 27 (AP)—Bowie Race Course, the pride of Southern Maryland and Larry MacPhail, got the East's major racing season off to a cool but dry start today.

The crowd of 10,046 was about the same as for last Nov. 17 when MacPhail opened his newly rebuilt track in a cloudburst that washed away much of the racing strip and caused a suspension of operations after only two races had been run.

There was no stakes race for today's inaugural, the best event being the seven furlongs Severn Purse, won in the final sixteenth of a mile by Mrs. A. B. Eklof's Outback.

Jockey John Covalli hustled the four-year-old son of Ujiji-Mint Julep under the wire a half length ahead of Eddie Yowell's March Brat, third choice in the betting at 9 to 2. Another length away in third place was the Carolyn K Stable's High Trend, second choice in the mutuels at 7 to 2.

Outback, which paid $24.00, $12.80 and $8.80 in this day of liberal prices, was clocked in the good time of 1:24 2-5 on a track that was fast despite heavy mid-week rains.

There were 87 lucky ticket holders on the daily double which paid $573.40 on the combination of Ayem, $31.20, in the first race, and Blondette, $10.00, in the second.

"We'll have a good meeting if we get any weather," said MacPhail. "Last fall we had the worst 18 days I ever saw, with six and a half inches of rain 36 hours before we opened. That was the first rain in 10 months, and it really tore up the place.

"For a cold day, today is very satisfactory."

The first stake race here will be the 2nd running of the Rowe Memorial Handicap, a three-quarter mile dash for three-year-olds and up, tomorrow. Eleven sharp sprinters were entered for the event, headed by Mrs. Samuel M. Pistorio's Tuscany, highweight under 122 pounds. Tuscany, bay five-year-old son of The Rhymer, won the Rowe last year, but injured a foot and hasn't raced since last spring at Laurel.

YOUTH MOVEMENT STILL ON FOR LOWLY BOSOX; TEAM SETS ITS SIGHTS FOR TWO YEARS HENCE

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series on the major league teams. Others will follow on this page daily.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

SARATOSA, Fla—They are going to try to go with youth again in the Boston Red Sox entry this year, hoping that by 1954 and 1955 the youngsters will have gained the experience necessary to make a fight for it.

This does not mean you automatically write off the once power-laden Bosox for there are a few solid men around to make it interesting.

Manager Lou Boudreau, looking more streamlined than he has for several years, isn't on any hot spot although the records show that managers haven't been staying around Beantown for too long in recent years.

"We've got a lot of young players this year," the pleasant Frenchman declares. "We're hoping that in a couple of years we can really give it a go. We've got Bill McKechnie working hard with our young pitchers and we should find some help here.

"There has been a great turnover in this organization in the last two years. You can't try to fill in six or eight positions right off. It takes time."

THERE ARE still enough veterans around to field a respectable team, including Bill Goodman, second base; George Kell, third base, and Johnny Lipon, shortstop, in the infield; Dom DiMaggio, Hoot Evers and Al Zarilla in the outfield, and Gus Niarhos, Del Wilber and Sammy White behind the plate.

On the firing line the pitching regulars held over are Mickey McDermott, Mel Parnell, Ellis Kinder, Sid Hudson and Willard Nixon.

However, for every spot, more or less, except catching, Boudreau is looking at young players, some with experience and some without it. A word on the veterans first.

"I expect to get some help from Nixon and McDermott this year," says Lou hopefully. "If not, we'll be flopping around."

Infielder Bill Consolo

(Photos by Frank Kuchirchuk)

DiMaggio, still a pretty fair fly chaser and a solid thumper, has had eye trouble and at this writing was still back in Boston undergoing treatment. Kell, injured last year, has completely recovered and if right he is the best third sacker in the league.

GOODMAN is one of the finer players in baseball, able to play any spot in the infield or outfield. White, a rookie last year, had a fine season and hit .281 in 115 games. He should be even better this year.

Toughest competition for spots on the club are being waged in the outfield and at shortstop. Clyde Vollmer, getting older but one who hits that long ball, is competing with Evers in left.

DiMag will have to fight off the challenge of Jim Piersall, the colorful rookie of last season who wound up in a hospital for treatment but now has fully recovered. Piersall has added weight and apparently the monkeyshines this year are out. There was a news ban on this fellow for a while here but he has looked so good in camp games that it is now off.

In the other outfield spot Zarilla will have to fight to keep his job with Gene Stephens and Harry (The Golden Greek) Agganis bidding for the job.

Stephens has been limping because of a chronic leg ailment, but he is a great prospect. Agganis is the Boston university football hero who signed for a $55,000 bonus and actually is a first sacker but since first is well protected by Dick Gernert, 1952 rookie star, Boudreau is working Agganis in the outfield.

At shortstop, Boudreau says it's a close fight for Lipon's job with Milt Bolling, from Birmingham, and Allen Richter, from San Diego, making a real bid.

Ted Lepcio, who did a fine job at third and second last year, and Johnny Merson, who played in 111 games for the pirates, are other infield hopefuls who figure highly.

Another infielder, Bill Consolo, a $65,000 bonus baby who must be kept for two years, also looks good. He is right out of Los Angeles Dorsey high where he was sensational.

Gernert, who replaced Dropo after the trade with the Tigers last year, did a fine job, hitting 19 home runs for the Bosox.

Among other hopefuls in camp is Haywood Sullivan, a catcher, who was a football star at the University of Florida. He still ranks as a senior there.

There are 18 pitchers in camp including a few procured in deals. Hector Brown, Marv Grissom and Bill Kennedy were with the White Sox last year and Bill Werle spent last season as a reliefer with the Pirates and Cards.

Ralph Brickner, who came up from Louisville late last season, and then did a fine job for the Red Sox, winning three and losing one, has looked good in camp.

Among the newcomers are Tom Herrin, a righthander who won 10 for Louisville; Bennett Flowers, 11-game winner for San Diego; Hershell Freeman, from Louisville! Stan McWilliams, from Albany, and George Uhaze, an 18-game winner from Albany.

Herrin seems to have the best chance at this stage.

RECAPPING THE RED SOX

The Red Sox, then, are going with youth, and won't go too far. They'll have to fight to get in the first division and then will have to have help from the veterans and good pitching from Parnell, Hudson and McDermott.

YOUTH MOVEMENT STILL ON FOR LOWLY BOSOX; TEAM SETS ITS SIGHTS FOR TWO YEARS HENCE

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series on the major league teams. Others will follow on this page daily.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

SARATOSA, Fla—They are going to try to go with youth again in the Boston Red Sox entry this year, hoping that by 1954 and 1955 the youngsters will have gained the experience necessary to make a fight for it.

This does not mean you automatically write off the once power-laden Bosox for there are a few solid men around to make it interesting.

Manager Lou Boudreau, looking more streamlined than he has for several years, isn't on any hot spot although the records show that managers haven't been staying around Beantown for too long in recent years.

"We've got a lot of young players this year," the pleasant Frenchman declares. "We're hoping that in a couple of years we can really give it a go. We've got Bill McKechnie working hard with our young pitchers and we should find some help here.

"There has been a great turnover in this organization in the last two years. You can't try to fill in six or eight positions right off. It takes time."

THERE ARE still enough veterans around to field a respectable team, including Bill Goodman, second base; George Kell, third base, and Johnny Lipon, shortstop, in the infield; Dom DiMaggio, Hoot Evers and Al Zarilla in the outfield, and Gus Niarhos, Del Wilber and Sammy White behind the plate.

On the firing line the pitching regulars held over are Mickey McDermott, Mel Parnell, Ellis Kinder, Sid Hudson and Willard Nixon.

However, for every spot, more or less, except catching, Boudreau is looking at young players, some with experience and some without it. A word on the veterans first.

"I expect to get some help from Nixon and McDermott this year," says Lou hopefully. "If not, we'll be flopping around."

DiMaggio, still a pretty fair fly chaser and a solid thumper, has had eye trouble and at this writing was still back in Boston undergoing treatment. Kell, injured last year, has completely recovered and if right he is the best third sacker in the league.

GOODMAN is one of the finer players in baseball, able to play any spot in the infield or outfield. White, a rookie last year, had a fine season and hit .281 in 115 games. He should be even better this year.

Toughest competition for spots on the club are being waged in the outfield and at shortstop. Clyde Vollmer, getting older but one who hits that long ball, is competing with Evers in left.

DiMag will have to fight off the challenge of Jim Piersall, the colorful rookie of last season who wound up in a hospital for treatment but now has fully recovered. Piersall has added weight and apparently the monkeyshines this year are out. There was a news ban on this fellow for a while here but he has looked so good in camp games that it is now off.

In the other outfield spot Zarilla will have to fight to keep his job with Gene Stephens and Harry (The Golden Greek) Agganis bidding for the job.

Stephens has been limping because of a chronic leg ailment, but he is a great prospect. Agganis is the Boston university football hero who signed for a $55,000 bonus and actually is a first sacker but since first is well protected by Dick Gernert, 1952 rookie star, Boudreau is working Agganis in the outfield.

At shortstop, Boudreau says it's a close fight for Lipon's job with Milt Bolling, from Birmingham, and Allen Richter, from San Diego, making a real bid.

Ted Lepcio, who did a fine job at third and second last year, and Johnny Merson, who played in 111 games for the pirates, are other infield hopefuls who figure highly.

Another infielder, Bill Consolo, a $65,000 bonus baby who must be kept for two years, also looks good. He is right out of Los Angeles Dorsey high where he was sensational.

Gernert, who replaced Dropo after the trade with the Tigers last year, did a fine job, hitting 19 home runs for the Bosox.

Among other hopefuls in camp is Haywood Sullivan, a catcher, who was a football star at the University of Florida. He still ranks as a senior there.

There are 18 pitchers in camp including a few procured in deals. Hector Brown, Marv Grissom and Bill Kennedy were with the White Sox last year and Bill Werle spent last season as a reliefer with the Pirates and Cards.

Ralph Brickner, who came up from Louisville late last season, and then did a fine job for the Red Sox, winning three and losing one, has looked good in camp.

Among the newcomers are Tom Herrin, a righthander who won 10 for Louisville; Bennett Flowers, 11-game winner for San Diego; Hershell Freeman, from Louisville! Stan McWilliams, from Albany, and George Uhaze, an 18-game winner from Albany.

Herrin seems to have the best chance at this stage.

RECAPPING THE RED SOX

The Red Sox, then, are going with youth, and won't go too far. They'll have to fight to get in the first division and then will have to have help from the veterans and good pitching from Parnell, Hudson and McDermott.

Livestock Market Seeking Location

PETERSBURG, W. Va.—Petersburg Livestock Market, Inc., trading as South Branch Poultry Auction, will hold its first Poultry Auction Saturday, April 4, 1953, at 1:30 p. m. at the old Muntzing Motor Company building on Main Street in Petersburg.

John Coffman, president of Petersburg Livestock Market, Inc., has been busy for weeks making arrangements. Coffman stated that Ernest Early, formerly of Broadway, Va., will be in charge of the auction.

An information meeting will be held in the courthouse in Petersburg Monday, March 30th, at 8 p. m. All persons interested in the poultry business are invited to attend. Detailed information will be released at the meeting as to how the auction will operate.

Kelly Chapel Congregation Will Dedicate New Hymnals

BURLINGTON—The congregation of the new Kelley Chapel Church of the Brethren, near Burlington, will dedicate new hymnals in a special service Sunday, at 2:30 p. m., according to the pastor, Rev. Robert L. Strickler. Preceding the dedication of the hymnals an old fashioned hymn-sing will be held. There will be special music by visiting groups.

The new hymnals were presented to the church by Albert R. and Ocie C. Leatherman, Moorefield, in memory of their father, George T. Leatherman, and in honor of Rev. John R. Leatherman, West Palm Beach, Fla.

The service will be held on the first anniversary of the fire that destroyed the old structure. The new church was dedicated December 14, 1952, just eight and one half months after the fire. Because of weather conditions, many interested persons were unable to attend the dedication service. The church membership and pastor hope to receive visitors at the hymnal dedication who were unable to attend before.

Poultry Auction Planned April 4 In Petersburg

Livestock Market Seeking Location

PETERSBURG, W. Va.—Petersburg Livestock Market, Inc., trading as South Branch Poultry Auction, will hold its first Poultry Auction Saturday, April 4, 1953, at 1:30 p. m. at the old Muntzing Motor Company building on Main Street in Petersburg.

John Coffman, president of Petersburg Livestock Market, Inc., has been busy for weeks making arrangements. Coffman stated that Ernest Early, formerly of Broadway, Va., will be in charge of the auction.

An information meeting will be held in the courthouse in Petersburg Monday, March 30th, at 8 p. m. All persons interested in the poultry business are invited to attend. Detailed information will be released at the meeting as to how the auction will operate.

Coffman stated that poultry auctions are now being successfully operated in other areas. He cited the Broadway auction as an example.

The new poultry auction will offer a convenient place for poultry buyers to meet with poultry sellers, and the sellers will have the opportunity of many buyers looking at the bidding on their poultry.

Coffman further stated that Petersburg Livestock Market, Inc., was looking for a permanent location in Petersburg, and it was the intention of the officers of the corporation to operate a livestock market in connection with the poultry auction as soon as such a permanent and convenient location can be established.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 27—(INS)—Help! Help! There'll be absolutely nobody in Hollywood for us poor columnists to write about this summer if the present (and past) exodus keeps up!

Not only are Barbara Stanwyck and Clifton Webb scheduled to make the trip to Rome for "Coins In The Fountain," but they are just one team in the three love affairs in the movie.

Jeanne Crain and Louis Jourdan are the stars of another sequence, as are Gene Tierney, and possibly—but not for sure—Vittorio Gassman.

Sol C. Siegel is the producer and Jean Negulesco the director of this opus making a wholesale raid on the few remaining players in movietown.

Shakespeare's tragic "Richard III," which was one of the late John Barrymore's most famous stage vehicles, will be brought to the screen by John Huston in London. The same company, Romulus, which made "Moulin Rouge," is furnishing the finances, and Jose Ferrer will play the unhappy Richard.

He—I mean Ferrer—has been here in town. He is here to write the screen adaptation of "The Shrike" with Ketti Frings. He's bought the rights and will make the picture independently.

He is being sought to play "Hamlet" at the La Jolla Playhouse, and will do that this summer. Outside of this he has nothing to do!

So nice to hear Dorothy Mackaill's voice on the telephone. She was here for the "This Is Your Life" show, which was a surprise for Fifi D'orsay. They kept Dorothy hidden out at a hotel until show time, as well as Fifi's sister, whom she hadn't seen for years.

"I'm playing you," said Dorothy, "the lady reporter."

So I told her to come on out and I'd give her some pointers.

One of the nicest wires Bob Hope received on his job as M. C. of the academy awards (and may I repeat, he did a terrific job) was from General Sarnoff, head of RCA who said:

"In the thrilling wedding of movies and TV, you were the minister!"

Dennis Day has received an offer of $80,000 for four weeks at the Sahara at Las Vegas, and it couldn't be more deserved.

Mrs. Louis B. Mayer planed to Miami to be at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. E. F. Jones. Mrs. Jones was stricken ill suddenly.

Judy Holliday, 25 pounds overweight, has to lose all of it before she faces a camera. Cut down on food, Judy—that's the sure way.

Barbara Stanwyck's sister, Mrs. Bert Merkent, is very sick with a circulatory ailment in a New York hospital and Barbara may have to fly there.

The forty glamorous blondes in Victor Saville's office were there for tests for the Mickey Spillane thriller, "I, The Jury."

Feliza Vanderbilt writes to say she wants me to meet her bridegroom-to-be, Elliott William Plowe, when she comes here for her wedding in a few weeks.

Easter in Palm Springs is always a real social event. Of interest this year is the Easter dansant at the El Mirador. Proceeds go to Our Lady of Solitude Church, the Catholic church so many of our film people attend.

While in New York Gene Markey and his attractive Lucille will see his daughter, Melinda, in the hit show, "On Borrowed Time." Gene will see his publishers about his new novel, "Kingdom Of The Spur."

That's all today. See you Monday.

Radio And Television

important element in the copy, a statement that will startle a lot of copywriters.

An even more arresting statement about women is that they are not necessarily attracted and may even be repelled by labor-saving claims. "Women begin to feel frustrated and inadequate when over and over they see and hear that 'this product can do you job better and quicker than you can'. They begin to feel farther removed from the essentially creative task of feeding their families, when they no longer have a real part in making the food, of creating clean and fresh clothes. Concentrating major advertising approaches just on freeing women from household and cooking chores makes poor sense emotionally."

Turning to the food people who are among the largest of all advertisers, Weiss had a lot of surprises. For one thing, he pointed out that while all food advertising is directed at women, 25 to 30 per cent of supermarket shopping is now being done by men and that possible 75 per cent of American men do some shopping for food. Weiss ridicules the idea that recipes sell food. Women, he says, like to clip recipes but they frequently don't follow them; they just like to read them. And women resent the "mother" type of woman who smiles at them from the ads or the TV set, telling them how to bake cakes. "That idea that Mother—this recipe-writing woman—is bossing her when she's a grown woman irritates her." As a last bombshell, Weiss says that the nutrition claims for breakfast foods may appeal to the parents but they don't mean a thing to the kids who eat (or more often don't eat) the stuff.

And finally on hard-selling, something that has driven us all nuts, Weiss declares: "Threatening copy results in repelling instead of selling. Talk about throat irritation enough, and, instead of the public believing it can smoke without possible irritations or after effects, you find a trend toward giving up the particular brand of cigarets that makes the claim. Eventually, the public comes to associate with the product the very quality the advertising claims to avoid."

Essentially, Weiss is advocating integrity in advertising in place of exploitation, "to forget about gimmicks and concentrate on the real reasons why people buy things," in short to treat us harassed consumers like adults rather than backward children.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 27—(INS)—Help! Help! There'll be absolutely nobody in Hollywood for us poor columnists to write about this summer if the present (and past) exodus keeps up!

Not only are Barbara Stanwyck and Clifton Webb scheduled to make the trip to Rome for "Coins In The Fountain," but they are just one team in the three love affairs in the movie.

Jeanne Crain and Louis Jourdan are the stars of another sequence, as are Gene Tierney, and possibly—but not for sure—Vittorio Gassman.

Sol C. Siegel is the producer and Jean Negulesco the director of this opus making a wholesale raid on the few remaining players in movietown.

Shakespeare's tragic "Richard III," which was one of the late John Barrymore's most famous stage vehicles, will be brought to the screen by John Huston in London. The same company, Romulus, which made "Moulin Rouge," is furnishing the finances, and Jose Ferrer will play the unhappy Richard.

He—I mean Ferrer—has been here in town. He is here to write the screen adaptation of "The Shrike" with Ketti Frings. He's bought the rights and will make the picture independently.

He is being sought to play "Hamlet" at the La Jolla Playhouse, and will do that this summer. Outside of this he has nothing to do!

So nice to hear Dorothy Mackaill's voice on the telephone. She was here for the "This Is Your Life" show, which was a surprise for Fifi D'orsay. They kept Dorothy hidden out at a hotel until show time, as well as Fifi's sister, whom she hadn't seen for years.

Dorothy tells me that she goes on TV April 13 in "The Magic Lantern," a dramatization of Richard Carlson's book.

"I'm playing you," said Dorothy, "the lady reporter."

So I told her to come on out and I'd give her some pointers.

One of the nicest wires Bob Hope received on his job as M. C. of the academy awards (and may I repeat, he did a terrific job) was from General Sarnoff, head of RCA who said:

"In the thrilling wedding of movies and TV, you were the minister!"

Dennis Day has received an offer of $80,000 for four weeks at the Sahara at Las Vegas, and it couldn't be more deserved.

Mrs. Louis B. Mayer planed to Miami to be at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. E. F. Jones. Mrs. Jones was stricken ill suddenly.

Judy Holliday, 25 pounds overweight, has to lose all of it before she faces a camera. Cut down on food, Judy—that's the sure way.

Barbara Stanwyck's sister, Mrs. Bert Merkent, is very sick with a circulatory ailment in a New York hospital and Barbara may have to fly there.

The forty glamorous blondes in Victor Saville's office were there for tests for the Mickey Spillane thriller, "I, The Jury."

Feliza Vanderbilt writes to say she wants me to meet her bridegroom-to-be, Elliott William Plowe, when she comes here for her wedding in a few weeks.

Easter in Palm Springs is always a real social event. Of interest this year is the Easter dansant at the El Mirador. Proceeds go to Our Lady of Solitude Church, the Catholic church so many of our film people attend.

While in New York Gene Markey and his attractive Lucille will see his daughter, Melinda, in the hit show, "On Borrowed Time." Gene will see his publishers about his new novel, "Kingdom Of The Spur."

That's all today. See you Monday.

Radio And Television

important element in the copy, a statement that will startle a lot of copywriters.

An even more arresting statement about women is that they are not necessarily attracted and may even be repelled by labor-saving claims. "Women begin to feel frustrated and inadequate when over and over they see and hear that 'this product can do you job better and quicker than you can'. They begin to feel farther removed from the essentially creative task of feeding their families, when they no longer have a real part in making the food, of creating clean and fresh clothes. Concentrating major advertising approaches just on freeing women from household and cooking chores makes poor sense emotionally."

Turning to the food people who are among the largest of all advertisers, Weiss had a lot of surprises. For one thing, he pointed out that while all food advertising is directed at women, 25 to 30 per cent of supermarket shopping is now being done by men and that possible 75 per cent of American men do some shopping for food. Weiss ridicules the idea that recipes sell food. Women, he says, like to clip recipes but they frequently don't follow them; they just like to read them. And women resent the "mother" type of woman who smiles at them from the ads or the TV set, telling them how to bake cakes. "That idea that Mother—this recipe-writing woman—is bossing her when she's a grown woman irritates her." As a last bombshell, Weiss says that the nutrition claims for breakfast foods may appeal to the parents but they don't mean a thing to the kids who eat (or more often don't eat) the stuff.

And finally on hard-selling, something that has driven us all nuts, Weiss declares: "Threatening copy results in repelling instead of selling. Talk about throat irritation enough, and, instead of the public believing it can smoke without possible irritations or after effects, you find a trend toward giving up the particular brand of cigarets that makes the claim. Eventually, the public comes to associate with the product the very quality the advertising claims to avoid."

Essentially, Weiss is advocating integrity in advertising in place of exploitation, "to forget about gimmicks and concentrate on the real reasons why people buy things," in short to treat us harassed consumers like adults rather than backward children.

Heresy In The Advertising World

Edward Weiss, president of the advertising firm of Weiss & Geller, has always been a bit of a gadfly to his profession, advocating what sometimes amounts to advertising heresy. I don't know whether his doctrines are sound but they sure fall pleasantly on the ears of this tired old consumer.

Just the other day he gave a speech at Emory University in which he casually demolished half a dozen sacred tenets of the advertising dodge, at least demolished them to my satisfaction if not to those of his brethren. It is Mr. Weiss' thesis that the ad boys have got rather seriously out of step with the human race, that they no longer really understand us.

He started out by attacking the old saw that human nature never changes. Human nature, says Weiss, has changed not once but four or five times in the last 50 years. In the '90's a chief social problem was getting people to accept the sexual instinctual side of their natures. In the '20s, psychological problems were usually caused by feelings of inadequacy and inferiority. In the '30s, they were activated by feelings of hostility between groups. Right now, the chief psychological problem seems to be a deep-seated need for a sense of security.

All this has deep meaning for the ad man, says Weiss. "An appeal such as the outmoded stereotype of 'get your man' might have been very important back in the mauve decade, or in the early 20th Century, when the so-called weaker sex were conditioned 'to get their man' by learning how to play the piano, to cook and bake and sew and above all be coy. The woman of 1953, strongly competitive to man, responds more strongly to an appeal which reassures her of her own femininity."

A good many of those ads showing the girl triumphantly in the arms of some male because she wears Zippo perfume are a lot of hogwash, says Weiss. Women, he says, want, first, reassurance of their own femininity, second, the approval of other women. Admiration by men, he says, is the least

Heresy In The Advertising World

Edward Weiss, president of the advertising firm of Weiss & Geller, has always been a bit of a gadfly to his profession, advocating what sometimes amounts to advertising heresy. I don't know whether his doctrines are sound but they sure fall pleasantly on the ears of this tired old consumer.

Just the other day he gave a speech at Emory University in which he casually demolished half a dozen sacred tenets of the advertising dodge, at least demolished them to my satisfaction if not to those of his brethren. It is Mr. Weiss' thesis that the ad boys have got rather seriously out of step with the human race, that they no longer really understand us.

He started out by attacking the old saw that human nature never changes. Human nature, says Weiss, has changed not once but four or five times in the last 50 years. In the '90's a chief social problem was getting people to accept the sexual instinctual side of their natures. In the '20s, psychological problems were usually caused by feelings of inadequacy and inferiority. In the '30s, they were activated by feelings of hostility between groups. Right now, the chief psychological problem seems to be a deep-seated need for a sense of security.

All this has deep meaning for the ad man, says Weiss. "An appeal such as the outmoded stereotype of 'get your man' might have been very important back in the mauve decade, or in the early 20th Century, when the so-called weaker sex were conditioned 'to get their man' by learning how to play the piano, to cook and bake and sew and above all be coy. The woman of 1953, strongly competitive to man, responds more strongly to an appeal which reassures her of her own femininity."

A good many of those ads showing the girl triumphantly in the arms of some male because she wears Zippo perfume are a lot of hogwash, says Weiss. Women, he says, want, first, reassurance of their own femininity, second, the approval of other women. Admiration by men, he says, is the least

Card of Thanks

We take this manner in which to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us following the death of Thomas Willison. We wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral.
The Family.

I want to express my deep appreciation to all those who were so kind and helpful in my bereavement, the death of my sister, Mary McKenzie. I want to thank those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers, those who loaned their cars, and Mr. White, of Stein's Funeral Home, for his kindness and help.
Louis Frank McKenzie.

Market Rises But Backs Away From Its Best Gains

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The stock market advanced today, but not without trouble, and it ended the day backing away from its best gains.

The oils did rather well, the railroads had lots of small losers and a handful of heavy gainers, steels were spotty, motors were lower, while chemicals and aircrafts were mostly higher.

The market's over all performance was dimmed by the low volume of business. It came to 1,640,000 shares. That compares with two million shares traded yesterday when the market was falling.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 30 cents (as compared with 50 cents lost yesterday), and it stood at $114.80 at the close.

Pacific Western Oil, which has new producing interests in the Persian Gulf, advanced 3⅜ at 39½.

Texas Gulf Producing was up 2⅜ at 53, and Seaboard Railroad was up 2 at 114.

Parke Davis added 2 at 44 after the company disclosed it would start shipping its new polio vaccine at an unspecified date after completing final tests on it.

Chrysler in the motor division swung rather widely between a gain and a loss (mostly on the losing side) and ended the day off ½ at 84. Studebaker was under a cloud and closed off ¼ at 38½. General Motors managed to keep to the upside most of the day, but it too finally fell over to the closing side off ⅝ at 65½.

Market Rises But Backs Away From Its Best Gains

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The stock market advanced today, but not without trouble, and it ended the day backing away from its best gains.

The oils did rather well, the railroads had lots of small losers and a handful of heavy gainers, steels were spotty, motors were lower, while chemicals and aircrafts were mostly higher.

The market's over all performance was dimmed by the low volume of business. It came to 1,640,000 shares. That compares with two million shares traded yesterday when the market was falling.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 30 cents (as compared with 50 cents lost yesterday), and it stood at $114.80 at the close.

Pacific Western Oil, which has new producing interests in the Persian Gulf, advanced 3⅜ at 39½.

Texas Gulf Producing was up 2⅝ at 53, and Seaboard Railroad was up 2 at 114.

Parke Davis added 2 at 44 after the company disclosed it would start shipping its new polio vaccine at an unspecified date after completing final tests on it.

Chrysler in the motor division swung rather widely between a gain and a loss (mostly on the losing side) and ended the day off ½ at 84. Studebaker was under a cloud and closed off ¼ at 38½. General Motors managed to keep to the upside most of the day, but it too finally fell over to the closing side off ⅝ at 65½.

City Park Being Prepared For Summer Season

Expansion And Repairs Progress

Constitution Park is being readied for the thousands of area residents who will make use of the picnic, recreation and swimming facilities during the coming summer months.

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, yesterday said the back road section, used for sleigh riding and other winter sports, has been reopened.

Brush and broken limbs are being raked and removed throughout the park area. The various animals are beginning to get the feeling of spring. The 22 ducks and two geese have been taken from their winter pens and are again splashing about their pool.

"Atsme," the brown bear which was added to the animal family of the park last year is again expected to attract much attention from park visitors.

Golden said the bear has been sleeping quite a bit during the past months and has "spread out a little" due to its life of ease. Extensive work will be completed within the next several weeks with the park facilities being made ready for the season which usually begins about the middle of May.

The pool, which annually attracts thousands of swimmers and sunbathers, is taking on a new look with a fresh coat of channel blue paint for the opening on Memorial Day.

The bathhouse is also being readied, Golden added, and plans at the park call for an extension of Grove 1, which is the main picnic area. He said additional water fountains, fire places and tables will be installed. Thus far trees and underbrush have been removed and it is hoped to have the work completed this year.

Swings, see-saws and other play equipment is being taken from winter storage, dusted off and being put up for the use of both young and old.

W. Va. Cigarette Bootleggers Face Tax Crack Down

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 27 (AP)—The Tax Department is getting ready to crack down on persons who bring cigarettes into West Virginia from other states and sell them without paying this state's excise tax.

Plans for an enforcement drive were outlined today by Tax Commissioner Milton J. Ferguson. He estimated cigarette bootleggers were costing the state two million dollars a year in tax revenues.

Ferguson said the main targets of the drive would be those who "bring cigarettes into the state by the case and sell them without paying either the excise tax or the gross sales tax."

The department does not plan to prosecute persons who bring a "reasonable" number of cigarettes into West Virginia from other states without payment of the excise, the commissioner added.

The Legislature put a penny-a-pack tax on cigarettes in 1947. Two years ago the excise was boosted to four cents to provide more revenues for schools and help finance a veterans bonus program.

In the first year after the excise went to four cents, cigarette sales dropped 21.8 per cent in West Virginia while the national trned was upward, Ferguson said.

He attributed the decline entirely to cigarette bootlegging. The sales drop resulted in a two million dollar annual revenue loss to the state, Ferguson added.

Weather

The Weather Bureau predicted favorable weather for the weekend, and thermometers in the area began rising last night. Today is expected to be partly cloudy becoming warmer this afternoon. Sunday is to be mild and warm. Yesterday an overcast began breaking up in late afternoon, allowing the sun to shine on Cumberland just before it went down. Temperature ranged from a low of 35 to a high of 47 according to Constitution Park weather station, and at 8 p. m. mercury stood at 42 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 84 per cent.

Forms Must Accompany Tax Returns

BALTIMORE, March 27 (AP)—One place it says "please" and another place it may say not to, but you are supposed to attach all your 509 forms to the Maryland state income tax return.

And what is a "Form 509?"

It's a slip your employer sends to the Maryland Comptroller, with a carbon copy to you, showing how much he paid you in 1952.

The federal government has a similar form, W-2.

Now, about Form 509.

Employers forward the originals directly to the comptroller and you get the carbon. In previous years this was the end of it. But a new regulation requires that you attach your carbon copy to your state income tax return.

Some employers are using 509s printed before the regulation was changed. And right on them it says: "Do not send with your income tax form."

The Comptroller's office today asked taxpayers to disregard this and send along the carbon copy. The law says you must.

State income tax returns must be mailed by April 15.

Don't forget to take your 15 per cent!

There's no provision for it on the tax return blanks because the 15 per cent reduction on the 1952 income tax wasn't enacted until after the forms were printed.

You compute your tax by following instructions on the blanks and then simply reduce the amount by 15 per cent.

It was the same way last year.

Former Chief Is Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

KINGWOOD, W. Va., March 27 (AP)—The fatal shooting of a soldier who fled to avoid arrest has resulted in an involuntary manslaughter conviction against James W. Smearman, former Terra Alta police chief.

A jury in Preston County Circuit Court returned the verdict yesterday. The trial grew out of the shooting last Nov. 8 of Willis Powell, 23, of Terra Alta.

Smearman, who was police chief at the time of the shooting, testified that Powell was wanted by the Army for being AWOL from Ft. Knox, Ky.

Smearman and another officer spotted Powell in Terra Alta. Powell ran, but Smearman overtook him. Smearman, the only eyewitness to testify, said he grabbed Powell as the soldier tried to climb a fence.

Powell fell on top of Smearman and a revolver in the chief's hand went off. Smearman testified he did not remember pulling the trigger.

Involuntary manslaughter, a misdemeanor, carries a maximum sentence of a year in jail. Judge Melvin Snyder deferred sentence pending action on a defense motion to set aside the verdict.

AHS Singers Give Concerts

A near-capacity audience last night heard the vocal groups of Allegany High School present their 25th annual spring concert in the school auditorium.

The program included selections by the Choral Club, Boys Glee Club, the Choir, Boys Quartet, Musettes, and Mixed Quartet.

Miss Dorothy Willison directed the first half of the program, "The Easter Story," sung by the choir with organ accompaniment by Norman Scribner Jr., against a backdrop representing an altar and stained glass windows.

Morris O'Neill directed the Choral Club in the first selections of the second part of the program, including a solo by Carolyn Deck. The rest of the program was directed by student members of the vocal groups, with Miss Willison directing the finale by the choir, "Ride the Chariot."

Accompanists were Dean Hancox, Marie Goldsworthy, Nancy Long, Robert Mann, Marilyn Kreider and Jane Platt.

The Applied Physics Laboratory is engaged in guided missile research and development for the Navy Bureau of Ordnance.

GILSON WRIGHT.

Gilson Wright To Speak To Rotary Club

Gilson Wright, former newspaperman and now director of the news bureau at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, will be the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club at Central YMCA, Tuesday, March 31, at 12:15 p. m.

In addition to his duties as news bureau director Wright is assistant professor of English in the College of Arts and Sciences at Miami as well as correspondent for the Oxford area for newspapers in Cincinnati, Dayton, Hamilton and other Ohio cities.

Wright began his newspaper career on the sports desk of a Lima, Ohio, paper while he was a senior in high school in 1923. He attended Ohio Northern University and then returned to Lima to work on newspapers in various reportorial capacities.

From 1926 to 1930 he attended Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware where he received the bachelor of arts degree. He was court reporter for the Marion, Ohio, Star for a year and then was sports editor of the Mansfield News. From 1931 until 1940 Wright was affiliated with the news bureau at Ohio Wesleyan and since Sept. 1, 1940 has been at Miami University.

He includes personal interviews with the late Will Rogers and Knute Rockne among his most vivid experiences.

Wright's talk to the Rotarians here will be on "Typographical Terrors," an explanation of the reasons newspapers commit some of the boners which give newsmen a bigger laugh than the general public.

Housewife Is Still Missing

Police last night continued the search for Mrs. Mary Frances (Newhouse) Clingerman, 32-year-old South End housewife who has been missing from her home since last Friday, March 20.

Her husband, Irvin C. Clingerman, said Mrs. Clingerman left their home at about 11:30 a. m. Friday and has not returned home since then. On Saturday, he said, she telephoned her home, but did not say where she was calling from, except that she was "up town."

Police said she is believed to have been seen entering a car on North Mechanic Street Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Clingerman is five feet, three inches tall, weighs about 135 pounds, and has reddish-blonde hair. Two of her front teeth are missing. When last seen she was wearing a dark dress, dark blue topper coat, black shoes, and carrying a black purse.

Allegany County Legislators Witness Event

SRC Will Acquire Land For Freeway

ANNAPOLIS, March 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today signed into law the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal parkway plan, less than 24 hours after it whipped through the House of Delegates.

Gleeful Allegany County legislators, who had nursed the project through the Senate and House despite several attempts to divert the plan, asked McKeldin to take prompt action in making it a statute.

McKeldin, who also favored the new highway, readily obliged. He used several pens and presented them to Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) and the delegates.

The bill authorizes the State Roads Commission to spend up to $350,000 to buy 4,100 acres along the old canal path from Hancock to Cumberland for the right-of-way. The federal government has agreed to construct a two-lane highway along the 55-mile stretch at a cost of about 8 million dollars.

Boosts For City Heads

The Senate yesterday passed and sent to the House, Senate Bill 413, sponsored by Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble.

The bill would increase the pay of the mayor of Cumberland from $1,950 to $4,800 a year and raise salaries of commissioners from $1,560 to $2,400.

The law requires the mayor to be in his office six hours a day but sets no requirements for members of the council.

Local 812, Municipal Workers Union, has backed the plan, but last week a spokesman for the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association, while approving a boost in salary for the mayor, objected to raises for the council, saying their pay would almost equal that paid to policemen who must be out in all the weather.

Magistrate's Salary

The Senate also passed Senate Bill 412, sponsored by Senator Kimble. It would increase the salary of the juvenile court magistrate and clerk of Allegany County.

Detention Quarters

House Bill 676, sponsored by Delegate Charles M. See, passed the House last night. It requires Allegany County to provide detention quarters for persons held for mental examinations.

Track Car Safety

The House passed House Bill 211, sponsored by Delegates Whitworth and Green, to require certain safety equipment on railroad track cars.

Increases Bounty

House Bill 626, sponsored by the Allegany and Garrett Delegations, passed the House. It requires county commissioners to match up to $2 the bounties paid on foxes and weasels.

Mink Bill Enacted

The House yesterday enacted Senate Bill 148, sponsored by Senator Ramsburg, which will allow mink hunting in seven counties, including Allegany and Garrett, between December 15 and March 1.

More Racing Days

Two additional days of racing at Fairgo would be provided in a bill introduced in the General Assembly.

House Bill 825 would increase from 10 to 12 days the number of racing days at half mile tracks in Maryland.

Sunday Movies Bill

House Bill 725 has passed the House. It provides for Sunday

Fort Hill High Campaigners

Children More Cautious Than Motorists, Survey At RR Crossings Shows

While West Side School children were praised for their caution in crossing Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks at Beall and Paca streets, railway observers reported 11.4 per cent of motorists using the two crossings violated safety regulations yesterday morning.

Railroad officials carried out a series of observations at the two street crossings between 8 and 10 a. m. yesterday as part of the B&O's 13-state territory safety program.

The observers counted the number of motor vehicles using the crossings, noting license numbers of drivers who ignored warning signals, drove at excessive speeds or passed other cars at the intersections.

Also noted was the care and caution of children going across the tracks on their way to school yesterday morning.

The check revealed that 11.4 per cent of the drivers, a total of 16 of 140 cars using the crossings in the two-hour period, violated regulations and failed to observe necessary safety precautions at the grade crossings.

This total compares with an average of 7 per cent violations throughout the B&O's 13-state territory in surveys conducted in cooperation with the National Safety Council and other interested groups in a concerted drive to reduce grade crossing accidents.

The school students came in for special praise by the railroad officials. Robert L. Ward, general safety supervisor for the B&O, said not a single violation was noted among the 102 children who used the two crossings. Of that number, he said, 82 crossed at Paca Street and the remainder used Beall Street.

The West Side school patrol was given special commendation for handling the traffic of children across the tracks, Ward continued.

Violators at the crossings will be mailed leaflets containing a friendly tip about a slip that could have been serious." It also reminds the motorist that he should:

Approach all crossings prepared to stop.

Stop on any warning of an approaching train.

Stop at every crossing where a stop sign has been erected and Proceed only when it is safe to do so.

More Pay Boost Bills Introduced In Legislature

Four bills which would increase salaries of Allegany County officials were introduced in the House of Delegates yesterday.

One of the bills was sponsored by the Delegation, two others were introduced by request and the fourth was sponsored by Delegate Estel C. Kelley.

Two resolutions were also introduced, both under the sponsorship of the Delegation.

The first bill, a Delegation measure, relates to the salary of the assistant state's attorney. It strikes out the present $3,000 salary scale and says the post shall pay not less than $3,000.

The second, introduced by the Delegation by request, would increase the salary of the Allegany County register of wills from $4,800 to $5,400. Delegates Charles M. See, chairman, said the salary is paid by the state and not by the county.

Introduced by request of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners and drafted by the board's attorney, was a bill to raise the basic pay of commissioners from $1,500 to $2,100, and the chairman of the board to $2,400.

Delegate Kelley introduced a bill to raise the basic pay of the clerk of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners from $2,400 to $3,000.

Chairman See pointed out that none of the salary increases could become effective, by law, until after the 1954 elections.

Delegate Kelley also introduced a bill regulating retail gas stations in this county. It sets up regulation signs for gasoline prices and requires dealers to sell gas at the cost listed on the sign. A $2 license fee is also provided to finance administration of the bill.

The Delegation introduced a resolution asking the County Commissioners, the Western Maryland Railway and the State Roads Commission to open and make passable Flat Rock Bridge, near Barton. They said opening of the bridge would save residents of the road up to five miles a trip.

Planning Meeting Set

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission will meet next Tuesday at 3 p. m. in City Hall.

Another Cabbage Flower Reported

Another one of those strange cabbage flowers has been found in the refrigerator of an area housewife.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Raymond Brant, of Locust Grove, said she went to her ice box to get a half head of cabbage to make some slaw. As she reached for it she was surprised to find a yellowish-green bloom blossoming from the stock of the cabbage.

Mrs. Brant said the flower was of a waxy texture and it is the first one she has ever seen. She also said that two other buds were in the process of bursting forth.

All Fort Hill Candidates Run As Independents

Youth Mayor Primary Voting Set For Today

Although Fort Hill High School has more candidates in today's Youth Mayor and City Council primary election, all eight of them — two for mayor and six for council — are running as independents.

The voting is scheduled at the City Hall rotunda from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. today. The general election will be held Saturday, April 25.

Fort Hill Candidates

During the week each of these Fort Hill candidates has been making speeches over the school's public address system. The lobby, cafeteria and corridors of the school have been lined with banners, prepared by the candidates themselves, assisted by Jack Underdonk, Wendyl Furlow, Donna Rowan and Thomas L. Murphy, art teacher.

Stamped napkins and tags have been distributed by the various candidates. Barbara Ann Campbell has been one of the most active campaigners.

The Fort Hill Student Council, of which Mrs. Madeline Mewshaw is faculty adviser, ruled that Fort Hill students could sign the petition of only one of the school's candidates for office. Each petition required 50 signatures.

Hughes Meets

George R. Hughes, chairman of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce committee, which is sponsoring the project, met yesterday afternoon at City Hall with students who will serve as poll officials today. He stressed that each ballot must be marked with an X and that each voter may ballot for one candidate for mayor and four for City Council.

Meanwhile, two Allegany High School students who are both running for mayor, issued last-minute statements in which they emphasized recreation, traffic and industry.

David B. Walton offered a four-point program. He would use $150,000 authorized by the General Assembly in 1947, for a Community Hall with an adjoining field which could be used for track and baseball events. The hall would provide facilities for basketball games, dances and other social events. He also suggests that the city offer free water rent and city tax exemption for the next seven years as an inducement for new industries to settle here.

Walton also endorses the proposal to make both Frederick and Bedford Streets one way thoroughfares and supports the construction of three new bridges over Wills Creek. He also favors an overhead bridge across the B&O tracks linking Paca and Williams Streets.

The other Allegany candidate for mayor, Kenneth M. McGraw, says that Cumberland has a problem of teenage recreation and believes drinking alcoholic beverages and petty crime stem from this deficiency. McGraw also would seek to encourage medium-sized industries to locate in Cumberland and would urge existing business establishments to improve the appearance of their property. Other suggestions include hiring a traffic engineer and temporary commission to clear up the traffic situation, construction of a park like Constitution Park for the West Side and North End as well as establishment of a youth center and strict interpretation of the law by law enforcing agencies.

Civic Symphony Rehearses

It's a slip your employer sends to the Maryland Comptroller, with a carbon copy to you, showing how much he paid you in 1952.

The federal government has a similar form, W-2.

Now, about Form 509.

Employers forward the originals directly to the comptroller and you get the carbon. In previous years this was the end of it. But a new regulation requires that you attach your carbon copy to your state income tax return.

Some employers are using 509s printed before the regulation was changed. And right on them it says: "Do not send with your income tax form."

The Comptroller's office today asked taxpayers to disregard this and send along the carbon copy. The law says you must.

State income tax returns must be mailed by April 15.

Don't forget to take your 15 per cent!

There's no provision for it on the tax return blanks because the 15 per cent reduction on the 1952 income tax wasn't enacted until after the forms were printed.

You compute your tax by following instructions on the blanks and then simply reduce the amount by 15 per cent.

It was the same way last year.

Former Chief Is Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

KINGWOOD, W. Va., March 27 (AP)—The fatal shooting of a soldier who fled to avoid arrest has resulted in an involuntary manslaughter conviction against James W. Smearman, former Terra Alta police chief.

A jury in Preston County Circuit Court returned the verdict yesterday. The trial grew out of the shooting last Nov. 8 of Willis Powell, 23, of Terra Alta.

Smearman, who was police chief at the time of the shooting, testified that Powell was wanted by the Army for being AWOL from Ft. Knox, Ky.

Smearman and another officer spotted Powell in Terra Alta. Powell ran, but Smearman overtook him. Smearman, the only eyewitness to testify, said he grabbed Powell as the soldier tried to climb a fence.

Powell fell on top of Smearman and a revolver in the chief's hand went off. Smearman testified he did not remember pulling the trigger.

Involuntary manslaughter, a misdemeanor, carries a maximum sentence of a year in jail. Judge Melvin Snyder deferred sentence pending action on a defense motion to set aside the verdict.

Gilson Wright, former newspaperman and now director of the news bureau at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, will be the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club at Central YMCA, Tuesday, March 31, at 12:15 p. m.

In addition to his duties as news bureau director Wright is assistant professor of English in the College of Arts and Sciences at Miami as well as correspondent for the Oxford area for newspapers in Cincinnati, Dayton, Hamilton and other Ohio cities.

He includes personal interviews with the late Will Rogers and Knute Rockne among his most vivid experiences.

Wright's talk to the Rotarians here will be on "Typographical Terrors," an explanation of the reasons newspapers commit some of the boners which give newsmen a bigger laugh than the general public.

Allegany County Legislators Witness Event

SRC Will Acquire Land For Freeway

ANNAPOLIS, March 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today signed into law the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal parkway plan, less than 24 hours after it whipped through the House of Delegates.

Gleeful Allegany County legislators, who had nursed the project through the Senate and House despite several attempts to divert the plan, asked McKeldin to take prompt action in making it a statute.

McKeldin, who also favored the new highway, readily obliged. He used several pens and presented them to Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) and the delegates.

The bill authorizes the State Roads Commission to spend up to $350,000 to buy 4,100 acres along the old canal path from Hancock to Cumberland for the right-of-way. The federal government has agreed to construct a two-lane highway along the 55-mile stretch at a cost of about 8 million dollars.

Boosts For City Heads

The Senate yesterday passed and sent to the House, Senate Bill 413, sponsored by Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble.

The bill would increase the pay of the mayor of Cumberland from $1,950 to $4,800 a year and raise salaries of commissioners from $1,560 to $2,400.

The law requires the mayor to be in his office six hours a day but sets no requirements for members of the council.

Local 812, Municipal Workers Union, has backed the plan, but last week a spokesman for the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association, while approving a boost in salary for the mayor, objected to raises for the council, saying their pay would almost equal that paid to policemen who must be out in all the weather.

Magistrate's Salary

The Senate also passed Senate Bill 412, sponsored by Senator Kimble. It would increase the salary of the juvenile court magistrate and clerk of Allegany County.

Detention Quarters

House Bill 676, sponsored by Delegate Charles M. See, passed the House last night. It requires Allegany County to provide detention quarters for persons held for mental examinations.

Track Car Safety

The House passed House Bill 211, sponsored by Delegates Whitworth and Green, to require certain safety equipment on railroad track cars.

Increases Bounty

House Bill 626, sponsored by the Allegany and Garrett Delegations, passed the House. It requires county commissioners to match up to $2 the bounties paid on foxes and weasels.

Mink Bill Enacted

The House yesterday enacted Senate Bill 148, sponsored by Senator Ramsburg, which will allow mink hunting in seven counties, including Allegany and Garrett, between December 15 and March 1.

More Racing Days

Two additional days of racing at Fairgo would be provided in a bill introduced in the General Assembly.

House Bill 825 would increase from 10 to 12 days the number of racing days at half mile tracks in Maryland.

Sunday Movies Bill

House Bill 725 has passed the House. It provides for Sunday

Children More Cautious Than Motorists, Survey At RR Crossings Shows

While West Side School children were praised for their caution in crossing Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks at Beall and Paca streets, railway observers reported 11.4 per cent of motorists using the two crossings violated safety regulations yesterday morning.

Railroad officials carried out a series of observations at the two street crossings between 8 and 10 a. m. yesterday as part of the B&O's 13-state territory safety program.

The observers counted the number of motor vehicles using the crossings, noting license numbers of drivers who ignored warning signals, drove at excessive speeds or passed other cars at the intersections.

Also noted was the care and caution of children going across the tracks on their way to school yesterday morning.

The check revealed that 11.4 per cent of the drivers, a total of 16 of 140 cars using the crossings in the two-hour period, violated regulations and failed to observe necessary safety precautions at the grade crossings.

This total compares with an average of 7 per cent violations throughout the B&O's 13-state territory in surveys conducted in cooperation with the National Safety Council and other interested groups in a concerted drive to reduce grade crossing accidents.

The school students came in for special praise by the railroad officials. Robert L. Ward, general safety supervisor for the B&O, said not a single violation was noted among the 102 children who used the two crossings. Of that number, he said, 82 crossed at Paca Street and the remainder used Beall Street.

The West Side school patrol was given special commendation for handling the traffic of children across the tracks, Ward continued.

Violators at the crossings will be mailed leaflets containing a friendly tip about a slip that could have been serious." It also reminds the motorist that he should:

Approach all crossings prepared to stop.

Stop on any warning of an approaching train.

Stop at every crossing where a stop sign has been erected and Proceed only when it is safe to do so.

More Pay Boost Bills Introduced In Legislature

Four bills which would increase salaries of Allegany County officials were introduced in the House of Delegates yesterday.

One of the bills was sponsored by the Delegation, two others were introduced by request and the fourth was sponsored by Delegate Estel C. Kelley.

Two resolutions were also introduced, both under the sponsorship of the Delegation.

The first bill, a Delegation measure, relates to the salary of the assistant state's attorney. It strikes out the present $3,000 salary scale and says the post shall pay not less than $3,000.

The second, introduced by the Delegation by request, would increase the salary of the Allegany County register of wills from $4,800 to $5,400. Delegates Charles M. See, chairman, said the salary is paid by the state and not by the county.

Introduced by request of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners and drafted by the board's attorney, was a bill to raise the basic pay of commissioners from $1,500 to $2,100, and the chairman of the board to $2,400.

Delegate Kelley introduced a bill to raise the basic pay of the clerk of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners from $2,400 to $3,000.

Chairman See pointed out that none of the salary increases could become effective, by law, until after the 1954 elections.

Delegate Kelley also introduced a bill regulating retail gas stations in this county. It sets up regulation signs for gasoline prices and requires dealers to sell gas at the cost listed on the sign. A $2 license fee is also provided to finance administration of the bill.

The Delegation introduced a resolution asking the County Commissioners, the Western Maryland Railway and the State Roads Commission to open and make passable Flat Rock Bridge, near Barton. They said opening of the bridge would save residents of the road up to five miles a trip.

Planning Meeting Set

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission will meet next Tuesday at 3 p. m. in City Hall.

Another Cabbage Flower Reported

Another one of those strange cabbage flowers has been found in the refrigerator of an area housewife.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Raymond Brant, of Locust Grove, said she went to her ice box to get a half head of cabbage to make some slaw. As she reached for it she was surprised to find a yellowish-green bloom blossoming from the stock of the cabbage.

Mrs. Brant said the flower was of a waxy texture and it is the first one she has ever seen. She also said that two other buds were in the process of bursting forth.

All Fort Hill Candidates Run As Independents

Youth Mayor Primary Voting Set For Today

Although Fort Hill High School has more candidates in today's Youth Mayor and City Council primary election, all eight of them — two for mayor and six for council — are running as independents.

The voting is scheduled at the City Hall rotunda from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. today. The general election will be held Saturday, April 25.

Fort Hill Candidates

During the week each of these Fort Hill candidates has been making speeches over the school's public address system. The lobby, cafeteria and corridors of the school have been lined with banners, prepared by the candidates themselves, assisted by Jack Underdonk, Wendyl Furlow, Donna Rowan and Thomas L. Murphy, art teacher.

Stamped napkins and tags have been distributed by the various candidates. Barbara Ann Campbell has been one of the most active campaigners.

The Fort Hill Student Council, of which Mrs. Madeline Mewshaw is faculty adviser, ruled that Fort Hill students could sign the petition of only one of the school's candidates for office. Each petition required 50 signatures.

Hughes Meets

George R. Hughes, chairman of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce committee, which is sponsoring the project, met yesterday afternoon at City Hall with students who will serve as poll officials today. He stressed that each ballot must be marked with an X and that each voter may ballot for one candidate for mayor and four for City Council.

Meanwhile, two Allegany High School students who are both running for mayor, issued last-minute statements in which they emphasized recreation, traffic and industry.

David B. Walton offered a four-point program. He would use $150,000 authorized by the General Assembly in 1947, for a Community Hall with an adjoining field which could be used for track and baseball events. The hall would provide facilities for basketball games, dances and other social events. He also suggests that the city offer free water rent and city tax exemption for the next seven years as an inducement for new industries to settle here.

Walton also endorses the proposal to make both Frederick and Bedford Streets one way thoroughfares and supports the construction of three new bridges over Wills Creek. He also favors an overhead bridge across the B&O tracks linking Paca and Williams Streets.

The other Allegany candidate for mayor, Kenneth M. McGraw, says that Cumberland has a problem of teenage recreation and believes drinking alcoholic beverages and petty crime stem from this deficiency. McGraw also would seek to encourage medium-sized industries to locate in Cumberland and would urge existing business establishments to improve the appearance of their property. Other suggestions include hiring a traffic engineer and temporary commission to clear up the traffic situation, construction of a park like Constitution Park for the West Side and North End as well as establishment of a youth center and strict interpretation of the law by law enforcing agencies.
